ANYBODY CAN LOOK GOOD GOING DOWNHILL. These high school Nordic skiers demonstrate a variety of different approaches to an uphill stretch, during the individual competition in last weekend's Telstar Relays. Approximately 350 skiers, from 19 schools, took part in the relays, which are a popular tuning-up event for February's Mountain Valley Conference and State championship meets. The host Rebels took 5th place in the relays, led by the team of Tom Morton, Shilo Hutchins, Matt O'Meara, Crystal Chase and Scott Emery.

Bethel selectmen agree to MDOT plan for Lovers Lane

The Bethel Board of Selectmen has agreed to a proposal from the Maine Department of Transportation for reconstruction work on the quarter-mile stretch of Lovers Lane adjoining the intersection with Route 2.

The proposal agreed to by the selectmen is the less costly of two presented at a last week's public hearing on the project. It calls for totally reconstructing the roadway, overhauling the roads drainage way, widening the intersection with Route 2, and reducing the grade of road from its current 15 percent (at the steepest section of the road) to 7.5 percent. (A 15 percent grade rises or drops 15 vertical feet for each 100 horizontal feet traveled.)

MDOT Design Engineer told the 10 people who attended last week's meeting that the plan would cost $370,000 in state and federal funds (no town money is directly involved), and construction could begin as early as the summer.

Members of the audience expressed concern—as had the selectmen at an earlier meeting on the plan—that the grade reduction proposed by MDOT was insufficient for correcting safety problems on the road.

"It's still too steep a grade for safety," said former Selectman Pat Doon, who lives across the Route 2 intersection.

"The area is dangerous anyway," she said, because of the volume of traffic, the poor visibility at the intersection and the additional element of confusion introduced by traffic entering from Route 26, just to the east.

Other members of the audience also questioned whether the proposed widening at the intersection would eliminate the problem of large trucks swinging out into the westbound lane of Route 2 as they attempted to negotiate an eastbound turn from Lovers Lane.

Rollins, however, said the turning radius of the redesigned intersection would allow the largest legal-sized trailer truck to make the turn without crossing into the westbound lane.

The MDOT also produced a second plan at last week's meeting, a plan which Rollins said would meet the objections concerning the grade of the hill (it would reduce the steepest grade to 5 percent).

However, Rollins said, the second plan had at least two serious drawbacks: it would damage property owners along the road by substantially increasing the grade of their driveways (to 18 percent in the case of Jim and Nancy Young), and the increased expense of blasting 10 more feet of ledge (to achieve the lower grade) would almost certainly delay the project significantly.

He said it would be especially difficult to come up with the additional money for a road such as Lovers Lane, which has relatively low traffic and a lower-than-average accident rate.

On Monday of this week the selectmen took the matter up again at a special workshop session, and they agreed to have Town Manager Madeleine Henley write to MDOT indicating that the town would go along with the less costly, and less damaging, proposal.

School district seeks ways to offset impact of state funding shortfall

By Wendy Hanscom

SAD #44 Superintendent Dewaine Craig told the district school directors Monday night that the Department of Education has reduced the district's subsidy money for at least the next three months.

The total reduction of subsidy for the three month period is roughly $13,000, Craig said.

The reduction, which was brought on by the state's budget crunch, is likely to be only the precursor for further state funding reductions during the coming school year.

In a memo sent to all district employees Craig commended them for their support during the fall and early winter in reducing costs, and asked them to put into effect additional conservation measures—mainly in fuel conservation, utilities, and supplies. Included in those cost-cutting measures are limiting field trips, reducing long distance telephone calls, turning off classroom lights whenever possible, reducing supply orders, closing window shades and drapes to conserve fuel, limiting bus idling to ten minutes, limiting overtime, eliminating substitutes for classroom specialists, reviewing more closely professional days, and eliminating make-up days for late buses.

In addition, late buses will be limited to two days a week (down from four) between Feb. 25 and March 14.

In his memo Craig wrote, "Although many of my requests might seem small by themselves, they will add up quickly and hopefully will allow us to reach our goal without reductions in programs or personnel this spring."

Although the school board has had no public discussion on ways to offset the $13,000 shortfall, Finance Committee Chairman Merton Brown said he thinks that the conservation measures may work if they are monitored properly.

Craig also announced Monday that he had received a letter from the Department of Education which stated that the addition to Crescent Park

School in Bethel has been moved up on the list of projects for approval by the state.

Walter T. Ruark, director of the Division of School Facilities, advised Craig in the letter that the Education Commissioner has recommended the project be considered for approval in July 1992, one year earlier than an earlier notice given by the department.

Local selectmen keeping a tight lid on town budgets

With economy reeling, officials are reluctant to add to taxpayers' burden

By Wendy Hanscom

Area selectmen are preparing their budgets for upcoming town meetings, and—under pressure from a sluggish economy and tightfisted taxpayers—the selectmen say they are trying hard to hold the line on what they have the most control over—municipal spending.

Much of each town's budget is out of the selectmen's control. Rising county taxes, insurance rates and school assessments make up about 60 percent of the budget in most area towns—and selectmen have little power over these assessments.

But where they do have control, the selectmen appear to be aggressively accounts."

The town's general assistance account was increased from $1,000 last year to $5,000 this year, but most other accounts will remain level with last year, Bartlett said.

Among other budget-cutting actions, Greenwood has imposed a hiring and salary freeze for town employees. The town also hopes to be able to use volunteers, rather than a contractor, to repaint the town office.

Bartlett said that, overall, Greenwood should come in close to last year's total budget figure.

Woodstock Town Manager Vern Maxfield also predicted the town's budget will be about the same as last attacking all but the most necessary costs.

Upton, Greenwood, Woodstock, and Andover officials say they have actively tried to cut municipal spending, and they don't expect their voters to be faced with significant increases in that part of their towns' budgets.

Upton Selectman Richard LeComte said, "We're right to the bone now. I don't think you could run a household with what we run this town with."

LeComte estimated the town's budget at $90,000, five percent higher than last year. He said $35,000 of that will be raised through taxation and $25,000 from surplus.

Greenwood Selectman Marie Bartlett said, "We're trying to cut. We're really going after it this year. We're going after every one of those year. Usually the town has a special road project, he said, but not this year.

He also noted, however, that the general assistance account will rise from $5,000 last year to $8,000 this year.

Maxfield said he hopes the town will fund two projects from surplus in the tree-growth penalty account—one to build an eave on the new town garage, the other to build a vault for safe keeping of town records. Old town records are currently stored at the library.

Andover Selectman Fred Emerson said, "We've lowered a lot of budget items, and we'll cut services if they run out."

ACTIVISTS WANTED THEIR SAY—At last week's informational meeting in Greenwood, local residents had little chance to ask questions about the possibility of a low-level nuclear waste dump or storage facility being located in their town—as activists from outside the area peppered the visiting Maine Low-level Radioactive Waste Authority panelists with hostile questions. According to authority member Diane Jackson, the activists follow the board from meeting to meeting.

Greenwood nuke waste meeting generates more heat than light

Activists from out of the area dominate an acrimonious, not-very-informative dialog

"I just wanted to give people a chance to ask questions," said Greenwood Selectman Marie Bartlett, who had asked the Maine Low Level Radioactive Waste Authority to hold an informational meeting in the town to discuss the possibility of Greenwood, or another local town, being selected as a low-level nuclear-waste storage site.

The meeting was held last Thursday evening, but it didn't turn out quite the way Bartlett had hoped.

Three dozen or so local residents did show up, but so did a contingent of anti-nuclear activists from outside the area—who turned much of the meeting into a less-than-informative battle between themselves and the MLLRWA panel, a battle replete at times with personal insults and tears.

"Screaming, yelling and crying—"

said Bartlett. "I'd never seen anything like that from adults."

The meeting began with a presentation by the MLLRWA panel, then moved on to a question-and-answer session.

Local residents did manage to ask some questions, and Bartlett—a strong opponent of any plan to site a waste dump in this area—characterized the MLLRWA panel's responses as straightforward and factual.

But much of the question-and-answer period was taken up by hostile, frequently abusive heckling of the panel by the anti-nuclear activist, some of whom have been attending MLLRWA meetings across the state.

The anti-nuclear activists charged the panel with "buffaloing the crowd," by being vague, evasive and misleading, especially about the safety of a low-level waste site.

The panel "literally didn't tell peo-

Planning board articles added to Andover's town warrant

By BARBARA ADAMS

The Andover selectmen last week approved three articles that were submitted by the Andover Planning Board for the March 2 Town Meeting warrant.

The first asks for enactment of a shoreland zoning ordinance; the second, for occupancy permits to be implemented; and the third, to amend the present Planning Board ordinance to include compensation for the members, alternates and the code enforcement officer.

Planning Board Chairman Ed Witt told the board that if the shoreland zoning ordinance is enacted, it should go into effect immediately, "in order to protect areas in the town." If approved by the town, the ordinance is then sent to the Department of Environmental Protection for approval within 45 days. In the interim, approval of any building permit applications for building in the affected areas would be considered as if the ordinance existed.

"The old ordinance," Witt said, "if it was enforced, is not very different. There's no doubt some people will be upset, but the state is forcing it on us. If the DEP has to draw one up for us, if ours isn't enacted by Dec. 31, theirs will be much more restrictive."

The ordinance would prevent any building of new structures in shoreland zoning areas and allow only a 30 percent expansion of existing structures.

Witt said a public hearing on the shoreland zoning ordinance will be held at the Andover Fire Station on Monday, Feb. 11, at 7 p.m.

"We are doing our best to get people involved," he said.

Issues in regard to enforcing the ordinance will be discussed at the next selectmen's meeting.

Witt also said he felt the discussion of deeryards at the Comprehensive Planning Board meeting at the Town Office Thursday night would be of interest to many Andover residents.

The selectmen discussed Sunday driveway plowing with Highway Commissioner Wilbur Chenery, and they agreed to have the highway department workweek begin, rather than end, on Sunday. If required to plow driveways on Sunday, the employees could take time off during the week in order to keep overtime at a minimum.

"Basically," Emerson said, "I am not opposed to driveway plowing, but just when we were running over the budget, that was a way of curbing spending. I don't want to run over budget, but I also don't want people not to be able to get out of their driveways to the road. We try to keep the lid on overtime, and it looks good so far."

C.N. Brown moves shed back from shoreline of Lake Christopher

C.N. Brown Company of South Paris has moved a rebuilt water-ski storage shed on the shore of Lake Christopher, as ordered by the Woodstock Code Enforcement Officer.

In November the town planning board ruled that the company must move the shed from the shore's edge. The board determined that the company had enlarged and rebuilt the shed, in violation of the town's shoreland zoning ordinance.

The ordinance allows structures within 75 feet of the shoreline to be maintained, but not substantially altered or enlarged.

In December, the company appealed the decision, but the town appeals board sided with the planning board and denied the variance.

Company representative Charles Sheehan said last week that the shed has been moved and was now at least 75 feet from the shoreline.

Opinions

The future of the north woods

A key question facing Maine as we approach the 21st century is how to manage the state's public and private woodlands, which not only provide the raw material for the state's largest industry, but also form the natural context for Maine's distinctive ways—and quality—of life.

Some people, including many associated with forest-based industries, argue that the woods should be managed as they have been for the last two centuries, by private owners whose know-how and economic self-interest ensure they will keep the woods healthy and productive—and who have traditionally kept the woods open to their fellow citizens who wish to use them for hunting, fishing and various other outdoor recreational activities.

But other observers, including many environmentalists, contend that the pressures, the economic pressures in particular, now facing the woods are unprecedented, and that the ultimate fate of the woods cannot be trusted to the good will of the owners, especially out-of-state corporate and foreign investors, who regard them only as a commodity to be manipulated for short-term profit, rather than as a usufruct to be managed for long-term productivity and passed along intact to future generations. Only public control, the environmentalists argue, can ensure the survival of the woods.

What follows are two contrasting positions on this debate. The first, from The Wilderness Society, makes the case for a greater degree of public control and proposes a mechanism for providing that control. The second, from the Maine Conservation Rights Institute, contends that the mechanisms of increased public control are already coalescing, and will usurp management of the woods—largely without public debate—if people of the state do not become more aware of what is happening.

A plan to protect the northern forests

From The Wilderness Society

"Saving the Northern Forest Lands: A plan of action, Dec. 19, 1990."

The "northern forest lands" of northern Maine, New Hampshire, New York and Vermont encompass the largest remaining expanses of privately owned forest land in the eastern United States. While most of the region has long been tamed and settled, these lands have retained most of their beauty, environmental and economic importance, and historic significance.

Growing fears that these lands are threatened by an unprecedented array of forces prompted the U.S. Congress to authorize the Northern Forest Lands Study (NFLS) in 1988. The Northern Forest Lands Study Report (NFLS Report) and its companion, the Report of Governors' Task Force on Northern Forest Lands (GTF Report), issued in May 1990, found that the northern forest lands are of national, as well as local importance. The reports also found that they are seriously threatened by major changes in ownership, management, and use, and that action must be taken soon if we are to secure the public interest in these lands.

In October 1990 the Congress funded a one-year extension of the Northern Forest Lands Study (NFLS II) to coordinate inventory, mapping, and research projects to identify important natural features. Funding was also provided for the establishment of a Northern Forest Lands Council, a partnership between the four states and the federal government that would work toward the formulation of a comprehensive set of regional and state policies and programs.

The Congress included a potentially strong new land-protection tool in the 1990 Farm Bill—the Forest Legacy Program (FLP). This program, to be administered by the U.S. Forest Service, is designed to protect environmentally important forest areas that are threatened by conversion to non-forest uses... [the program would make] use of conservation easements and other mechanisms, including full-fee acquisition.

Despite the progress that has been made on both state and federal levels, the existing patchwork of laws, regulations, and landowner-ship is still not adequate to address the growing scope and intensity of pressures on the integrity of the northern forest lands. The time has come to begin building a com-

Washington begins 'greenlining' Maine

From The Maine Conservation Rights Institute

Most Mainers don't know it yet, but the U.S. Congress has just implemented the first step towards centralized federal/state land use controls and acquisition across the state.

The 1990 Farm Bill, passed at the end of the Congressional session in October, authorizes acquisition of private land by the U.S. Forest Service and converts the 1988-90 Northern Forest Lands Study (NFLS) into a four state regional "Northern Forest Lands Council" in 1991 to begin implementing the NFLS recommendations. The appointed commission will span four states: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and New York.

The NFLS report, completed by the U.S. Forest Service last May, recommended a variety of strategies including land use prohibitions, the creation of new federal and state parks through outright acquisition of private land, and tax penalties and incentives intended to direct the use of private land. The report advocated "greenlining" the northern New England/New York region—encompassing 28 million acres from the coast of Maine to western New York—to coordinate the controls and acquisition.

A "Greenline" park is a region designated for preservation of private land through a combination of public acquisition and strict land use prohibitions directed by an appointed commission overruling existing local and state laws.

A task force appointed by the governors of the four states to advise the U.S. Forest Service concurred with most of the report's recommendations last spring, but stopped short of using the term "greenline." The Maine State Legislature, however, had rejected proposals for further state land use controls in favor of traditional town government and local decision making when it passed the Comprehensive Planning and Land Use Regulation Act in 1988 that directed localities to plan for their future under state guidelines.

The new Farm Bill established a "Forest Legacy Program" for the acquisition of land and easements in forest areas "threatened by conversion to non-forest uses." An earlier version would have authorized only acquisition of easements, but was broadened after the Sierra Club and other environmentalist

WITHDRAWAL MISCONCEPTIONS

To the Editor:

There are apparently some misconceptions about the proposed Newry withdrawal plan which need to be cleared up before the first Newry hearing. Following are some explanations, item by item (please realize I am speaking for myself, not the whole Newry withdrawal committee):

I have talked to several people from area towns who have concluded that Newry is withdrawing from SAD #44. This is not necessarily the case. In the first place, the town has to vote on it. In the second place, as Mary McVey pointed out in her letter last week, not everyone in Newry is in favor of it.

Another misconception is that the Newry withdrawal committee is bent on leading Newry out of the district. The committee's job was to prepare a withdrawal plan for the town to consider, regardless of whether individual committee members intended to vote for it or not. This meant that members may have put aside their individual opinions until the process of producing the plan was done. People attending the hearing will probably find a wide range of opinions within the committee.

I realize that the committee could not see every possible angle on this issue, but all the points made in the two letters to the editor last week have been discussed at meetings even if they did not get into the newspaper. Many of them did get into Jim Sysko's cases for and against withdrawal; to have put in all perspectives would have resulted in a book rather than a paper.

People have also asked whether the Newry committee has looked into getting the SAD #44 funding formula changed. This is not the function of the committee; a citizen petition circulated throughout the district would be required to alter the formula.

In September I wrote a letter to the editor favoring the withdrawal study because it would be good for Newry to take a hard look at its priorities for its children, its town, and its region. I still feel that way. I also felt at that time that the final conclusion could be that Newry should stay in SAD #44. If that is the result, I hope Newry will view the process not as a failure but as a valuable perspective gained through examination of our priorities as a town.

Newry residents, please come to the hearing Feb. 12 so that you may voice your opinion and listen to those of others.

CAN'T REASON WITH SADDAM

To the Editor:

In response to the letter by Maura Lyons of Bryant Pond, I must say I would love to live in the idyllic world she describes, but it can never happen as long as there are barbarians like Saddam Hussein alive. The world is not filled with kind, considerate, gentle people. There are, sadly enough, people who wish to have what others have and would rather take it than work for it. I think of Hussein and the U.S. in these terms. He systematically goes down a street robbing each house and killing the occupants. He finally gets to the end of the street in front of the biggest, nicest, richest, looking house and someone walks out and says, "We don't believe in fighting here, please leave us alone and be happy with what you have." Do you really think that would work? I think you come out with a .45, place the barrel between his eyes and pull the trigger, or you head him off at the first house with as much help as you can get.

Reasoning has not worked with Iraq. We truly are a peace-keeping force when the consequences of not stopping Hussein are considered. He would surely attack Israel and be obviously doesn't mind killing civilians. The Israelis are perhaps the most patriotic people, as a whole, in the world. They are committed to defending their homeland to the last person and they have nuclear weapons. If they were about to be conquered by Iraq someone would unleash the nuclear arsenal and then what? Even worse what if these nuclear weapons were captured by Iraq? Would Hussein leave the rest of the world alone because they don't want to fight him? Think again. When being ruler of one country isn't enough power for one man you'd better beware of him.

The best news I have heard lately is President Bush saying we will never again send our army to fight a war with one arm tied behind its back as was the case in Vietnam. That is the first time I've heard a high ranking government official admit that it was not the military who couldn't win the war, but the government preventing them from doing so. With that support we will surely win. There will be considerable loss of life, but it is better to fight now with a lot of help than later, alone.

Truly nobody wants to see Americans killed in Iraq and perhaps, Ms. Lyons and Mr. Pierce feel it's OK if people in Israel and Kuwait die as long as no Americans die. The psychology of friendliness and reasoning only works with people on the same level of civilization who are willing to listen and change. Humanity is still at the crude state of growth where the saying, "the meek shall inherit the earth," means they'll get six feet by three feet by six feet deep. Regrettably we must still live by the adage "only the strong survive." Forget your politics and support our troops.

SUPPORT THE TROOPS—BY CHANGING U.S. POLICY

To the Editor:

It is unfortunate that some American citizens are verbally attacking one another for differing views points on the decision to engage U.S. troops in war with Iraq. Although we continue to bomb Iraq without let up, I find my questions on why this is happening don't stop.

Yes, I question U.S. foreign policy. Policy very, very few of us have anything to do with. I question how Saddam Hussein, friend and recipient of money, arms, and technology from the United States all through the '80s, suddenly became an evil equal to Hitler and deserving of all the death and destruction we can inflict upon his country. Was our "intelligence" asleep at the wheel? They seem to know just where all the military installations are now. Oh yeah, that's right, Iraq annexed Kuwait and inflicted unspeakable horrors on that "innocent" country.

And suddenly the governments selective memory kicked in. It remembered how Hussein gassed his own people. Never mind that he used chemical warfare on Iranians. We could overlook Iran—after all, they are a terrorist country bent on hating the U.S.A. And Iraq? That's right they sponsor some of the most feared terrorist organizations in the world. But...

That wasn't enough to keep them on the list of "terrorist" countries. Not enough reason for Ronald Reagan or George Bush. Why do that when they had all that oil and oil money they were willing to send our way. So what if it went to increasing Iraq's chemical and biological arsenal.

So, now, here we are at war with a country we supplied. They were only supposed to use their weapons on Iran.

George Bush became more than a little testy when that madman dictator betrayed his trust.

Do I dare question the President of the United States? You bet I do. This is the man who campaigned on "Read my lips, no new taxes." The man who is currently ignoring our domestic needs at great peril to us all. The man who in all his wisdom chose Dan Quayle as vice president. These are just a few examples that lead me to question his judgement.

The questions on our policy with Iraq began as I watched him cruise around in his gas-guzzling power boat on vacation in early August—as my brother sweated in the desert of Saudi Arabia. Yes, reality hit quickly for me. I couldn't believe that the president would actually sacrifice American lives to fight an invading dictator in a monarchy that refused to let our government use passage through their country when Iraq accidentally (oops) killed Americans in the Gulf on the U.S.S. Stark. A government led by an Emir with 80 wives, now living the life of luxury in Paris.

But then I couldn't believe our government sent my then 20 year old brother, a paratrooper with the 82nd Airborne, to fight a dictator's army in Panama either. Another dictator friend gone bad. And George Bush was going to cut him a deal too. Maybe that is why he's been so adamant about no concessions this time. The Noriega hit had a catchy name, Operation Just Cause. Remember? It was just over a year ago. But that's another foreign policy story. Yes, Noriega is still captured in jail in Miami. Will he ever go to trial? That's a circus story. And Panama... hundreds of casualties, thousands of homeless, for what?

Now, as my brother, one of the incredibly brave, just turned 21, prepares to do battle on the front I am still in shock that America is at war. I hope I don't lose this sense of horror, disbelief, and outrage for it continues to fuel my questions and ultimate hope. The months of trying to find answers through research, readings, and programs to illuminate why we are at war with Iraq has only added to the darkness and dread in my soul. What I know is that I didn't find the answers with George Bush. All I find are contradictions and the knowledge that a president can just as easily lead a nation to war as a dictator for reasons of power and control that are a far cry from democracy.

Are there alternatives to war? Yes. Eastern Europe communist countries showed us there are. Sanctions with most of the world participating were having a devastating effect on Iraq. Negotiations were possible but when it was personalized into ultimatums.

Would I support the government ignoring the atrocities Hussein has committed? No. Human rights and international law for all the world's citizens is a way the United Nations could begin to focus its efforts. I cannot forget that this government helped to create the monster of Saddam Hussein.

There are other Saddam Husseins in this world. Countries that would shoot down hundreds of their own students, countries that will torture and kill if you disagree with their policies, countries that will jail you and dehumanize their own citizens because of their gender or race, countries that look to the U.S. to support their armies to terrorize and kill those who oppose their policies. Countries that have something we want, countries we do something with regularly. A few that come quickly to mind are China, El Salvador, Syria and South Africa. Will we use our selective moral standards to show those and whoever else rubs our president the wrong way that smart bombs make smart people? Will we continue to show our strength in character with great military might? Or will we have a world to worry about?

As the end of the second week of war comes to a close it is clear that once a war has begun it takes a horrific life

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the next monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, Feb. 7, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Featured during the program portion of the meeting will be the annual films festival. Selections this year include a film version of Sara Orne Jewett's classic short story "A White Heron," a history of contra dancing "Country Corners," and the introductory film for Colonial Williamsburg, "Story of a Patriot."

As usual anyone interested is cordially invited to attend. Revisions to the constitution and bylaws, announced at the last meeting, will be considered and voted upon at this meeting.

A number of memorial gifts have been received in memory of Thelma Cooper Van Den Kerckhoven, a member of the Bethel Historical Society since 1978, from the following: William W. and Jacqueline Wilkins of Longwood, Fla.; Robert H. and Jane Anne S. Elliott of Bucksport; Welman C. and Natalie McFarland of Bucksport; Dorothy J. Lake of Bucksport; Leo and Joanne Grunwald of Bucksport; Aaron and Frances R. Labree of Bucksport; G. Richard and Kathryn Berry of Bucksport; Nelson and Astrid Bourgon of Bucksport; Robert O. and Lucia V. Wilson of Shelburne, N.H. Much appreciation is expressed to all of the above for their contributions in Mrs. Van's memory.

Frequently in the 19th century it was common for children to make an agreement to inherit the property of the parents in exchange for care for the remainder of their days. An 1875 agreement between William W. Chase and his parents, Joshua and Anna Chase, reads as follows: "The conditions of this obligation is such that if the said William W. Chase, his executors and administrators, shall at all times during the natural life of the said Joshua Chase and Anna Chase, wife of the said Joshua Chase, well and sufficiently support and maintain the said Joshua and Anna in the house of the said William W. Chase, and them provide with meat, drink, clothes, nursing, medicine, and other things necessary for their comfortable support; and give them a decent burial after death, then this obligation to be void."

of its own spinning quickly out of control of all the experts predictions. We just don't know how much ugliness it will take to beat our enemy into submission. Which is one of the many contradictions we're living. The war brought live daily into all our livingrooms is highly censored.

I wish I had faith in the leadership of this country. I wish I could say, yes, this is about our freedom, or this is so we can free our oppressed, or this is to save the world. It is none of the above or even close. That is why George Bush has had such a difficult time articulating the whys. He's big on bravado though. Phrases like "We're going to go over there and kick butt." It is easy to feel confused about where our sense of loyalties should be. In a democracy you speak up and out. This is not a time for blind faith. I have realized (as many have) that our war technology has far surpassed our ability to deal with it. We must be voices of reason, and patience, and caution. My brother has my love, support, admiration, and prayers. My family lives for the day when we can give him the tremendous welcome he deserves on his return. I feel that way about all the troops. We want them here, home. It is brutal to think about the lives already lost in this war and the horror the POWs and their families are experiencing. We have to keep asking is war the way to peace?

My brother knows that I and other family members protesting the war are not against our military forces. He knows that our questions and holding the government accountable for the lives we entrust them in the military do make this a democracy.

Vietnam Vets against the war in the Middle East remember (are living) what it was like to come home to a government who ignored them. A government which pretended that they didn't have enormous needs in readjusting back to a country at peace. A government that denied them job, education, and medical benefits they deserved, and mostly a government that refused to recognize the horror they lived. We (Americans for peace) will not make the mistake of scapegoating the soldier for the government again.

Hundreds of thousands of demonstrators for peace in the new Republic of Germany well remember Hitler and realize what I did in August. We cannot control the world through military intervention. Though it may seem noble to think we are "policing" the world to ensure freedom for all, that is not the consequences of our actions.

We are a global society now vastly different in our technological ability to communicate than at any other war yet, still so hopelessly mired in coping with our differences and the balance of power.

One last question: why is it that large oil companies such as Exxon and Texaco are showing record profits when not a drop of oil has flowed from Iraq or Kuwait for over five months? I know people will continue to disagree with me. And I know I will continue to speak out for peace. This is not the time for silence. I hope the verbal attacks will stop, so we can really hear one another.

THANKS FOR STOCKINGS

To the Editor:
Greetings.
On behalf of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Hannah F. Richardson Tent #19 I would like to thank everyone who helped with Operation Desert Stocking.
There were 235 Christmas Stockings and three "Company Boxes" (items too big to fit in stockings) sent out to Maine Units serving in Saudi Arabia.
Because many of the gifts and donations were anonymous and so numerous, in thanking everyone I'm afraid I might miss someone. With no intention of slighting anyone I would like to mention some of the donors:
Anderson-Staples American Legion Post #112, Oxford; Anderson-Staples American Legion Auxiliary, Oxford; Robinson Manufacturing, Oxford; J.J. Newberries, Norway; Rumford Community Hospital personnel; Oxford Bank; Bethel area school students; Bethel-Bryant Pond area businesses; Boy Scout Troop #665, Bethel; Bethel Savings Bank; Avon, Beverly Bemis, Diane Johnson; Fryeburg Harbor Church school students (all six of them); Center Lovell General Store; East Stoneham General Store; The Enchanted Florist, Oxford; Brownie Troop #171, Lovell.

And thanks also to the area businesses and churches who allowed us to leave our donation jars and boxes with them:

L.F. Pike & Son, Norway; Center Lovell Church; Oxford Bank, Oxford; East Stoneham Store; Perry Ellis Shoes, North Conway, N.H.; Center Lovell Store; East Stoneham Church; Bethel Savings Bank.

I would also like to note a monetary gift given in memory of Catherine Taylor by her daughter, Anita Moulton.

We also thank our Sisters in Judith Grover Tent #17, Bryant Pond and Elizabeth Crockett Blank Tent #18, Norway, without their enormous effort this project would indeed have been a lot smaller.

Special thanks go to Bonnie Fox at the East Stoneham Post Office; Sue Longey, Chief of Family Support at Fort Devens; Sgt. Briggs at Camp Keyes in Augusta; and Lorraine Aniki, friend and chief packer. These folks were vital sources of information, support and help throughout this project.

Lastly, we thank all of the area newspapers and radio stations who were vital to this project. Without the printing and broadcasting of information about this project it would have never come to pass.

I would like to quote from a letter I received from Sgt. William R. Walton Jr., SSgt. David Saar, SSgt. Chuck Vincent, and SSgt. David Barry, 3rd Platoon's "Desert Express": "Deepest thanks for your concern for us in this desolate, barren country far from our home and families. Your stockings will decorate our living quarters on Christmas day."

I think this thanks needs to go to everyone from check writers to those who pitched in spare change and small gifts. All were equally important.

Now, because we had little postage money leftover and a few gifts that came in a little late we've decided to send some Valentines along to the sand. We'll be sending boxes to Maine Units that we didn't reach at Christmas time.

The list of items remains the same with the addition of bandannas, paint masks (the paper ones), Gatorade powder, Poparts, brushless shaving cream (looks like a tube of toothpaste) and of course Valentines.

Word is, it's pretty cold at night over there these days, I don't know if warm boot socks and mittens would be appropriate or not but if any are given we'll certainly send them. I've also heard some talk of using nylon stockings and panty hose to keep sand out of guns and equipment.

We'll be gathering everything together Feb. 1 and mailing Feb. 4. Anyone wishing to help in anyway may leave their contributions at L.F. Pike & Son in Norway, Pulla Hardware in Rumford, Richardson's Store in Rumford Center, Dyer Electronics Radio Shack in Mexico, Bob's Corner Store in Locke Mills, Perhaps in West Paris, Pete's Market Square Billiards in South Paris, Computers and Electronics Radio Shack in Oxford, The Market Basket in Harrison, Main Street Variety in Bridgton, East Stoneham General Store in East Stoneham, Lovell Hardware in Lovell, Center Lovell General Store in Center Lovell, The Inn Crafts in Fryeburg, Perry Ellis Shoes-Settlers Green in North Conway, N.H. or contact me at 928-2611 or Joyce Gouin at 743-6836. It is our fervent hope we won't need to continue this project much longer, but as long as one soldier remains in the sand we will continue to support their service to our country regardless of our personal or political feelings and urge everyone else to do the same. Again, thank you to everyone.

SCHOOL COUNSELORS ARE 'CHANGE AGENTS'

To the Editor:

In SAD #44 there are five school counselors at our elementary, middle and high schools. Lorraine Latour at Andover and Woodstock Elementary Schools, Kathy Acker at Crescent Park and Ethel Bisbee Elementary Schools, Sally Hannon with Telstar Middle School, Beth LaVallee serving at Telstar High School and myself, District Guidance Director, overseeing K-12 guidance and counseling services at all schools. We will join thousands of other school counselors across the U.S. in celebrating National School Counseling Week, Feb. 4-9. The week is sponsored by the American School Counselors Association and highlights counselors' contributions to student growth and achievement.

As counselors, we are specifically credentialed professionals responsible for counseling students with their academic, social, personal and career development. The foundation of acquired knowledge that we provide our students, their families, teachers and community members will help better our school district. Thus, this year's theme is School Counselors: Professionals Initiating Change. School counselors in SAD #44 are "change agents" helping students, families, and teachers with a variety of issues, concerns and achievements via a variety of services. We also serve as catalysts in enabling young people to become productive citizens.

Mrs. Latour, Mrs. Acker, Mrs. Hannon, Mrs. LaVallee and myself will host a series of events within our respective schools this week as follows: Feb. 4—Community/Parent Day; Feb. 5—Self-Esteem Day; Feb. 6—Career Day; Feb. 7—Student Appreciation Day; and Feb. 8—Faculty Appreciation Day. Parents and community members are cordially invited to attend any and all activities.

DEMOCRATS' 'RED HERRINGS'

To the Editor:
For the members of the public who may not be privy to all the insider activities and antics of the Maine Legislature, I'd like to clear up what may be a misconception planted in the minds of the public by some members of the Democratic leadership.

Many dedicated members of the Legislature are working hard to try to cut the state budget while preserving those services benefiting Maine citizens most in need. Lately Democrat leaders have made press statements defending their favorite programs, some of which provide no direct service to Maine citizens at all. When asked how they intend to pay for these programs, a frequent response is: let's cut out all those deputy and associate commissioner positions

Governor McKernan created.

This implication, of course, is that under Governor McKernan's leadership, he has created fat cat positions for his pals. Maybe that's the way some former governors operated, but not Governor McKernan.

Let's take a look at the facts. In 1990, there were 28 more Deputy or Associate Commissioners than there were in 1986. But of those, 16 either no longer exist or were created during the end of the Brennan Administration, but not yet filled in 1986 or since 1990 have been eliminated by Governor McKernan.

So, take away those 16 from the original 28 in question and let's look at the specifics of the 12 positions left. Of these 12, four are positions in the new Solid Waste Management Agency (which is responsible for all the state's recycling); two are in the Augusta Mental Health Institute; two are in the Intergovernmental Drug Enforcement; one is the Child Welfare Services Ombudsman; two are in the Department of Environmental Protection and resulted from a recommendation by the recent professional Peat Marwick study of that department; and one position is for the State Retirement System.

Even if we were to cut these important, albeit "new" positions from state government, the savings from eliminating 12 positions would not even come close, of course, to the current $100 million budgetary shortfall.

One would have to wonder if there aren't other reasons the Democrat leadership want to eliminate these positions—It certainly isn't because of any overwhelming financial savings. While we're on the subject of this red herring, I'd like to remind the public of a few other facts:

- Governor McKernan's appointees—the Commissioners, Associate and Deputy Commissioners and the Governor's personal staff have foregone merit pay increases for two years and cost-of-living increases this year. This is in spite of the fact that they are perfectly entitled to these increases—just like all other state employees.

- The partisan staff of the Democrat leaders have not followed any such example. Despite the fiscal troubles of the state, Speaker Martin's and Senate President Pray's staff took both their five percent merit and three COLA increases last year and this year.

- Executive branch employees have also generously volunteered for the state's voluntary leave program, thus helping to preserve more permanent jobs and prevent additional layoffs.
- Governor McKernan has also lead by example. In addition to the days worked unpaid, he has taken a voluntary $7,500 reduction in pay.

- Currently, the Clerk of the House, Secretary of the Senate, executive director of the Legislative Council and director of the State Capitol Planning Commission all earn more than $65,000 per year—more than we pay the Governor of Maine.

I hope this information puts some of the Democrat rhetoric in perspective. As usual, there is more than meets the eye.

WAR AS TRILATERALIST PLOT

To the Editor:

I am sick and tired of hearing the slogan "Support the Troops" used to knock those of us who would prefer to see them brought home now. It is not anti-American to oppose a president who lies constantly and whose policies (along with those of his Trilateralist cohorts) may lead to the end of our national sovereignty, and to the needless death of thousands.

David Rockefeller founded the Trilateral Commission in 1973. It consists of 325 of the wealthiest, most politically powerful people from the western world. Although they claim they have no influence over the policies of our government, in reality they are the government. I have just received a copy of their membership list from their headquarters. Listed as "Former Members in Public Service" are Bush, Darman, Greenspan and Scowcroft. The current list includes: Cohen, Brzezinski, Kissinger, Kirkpatrick, Foley, and phony "conservative" columnist George F. Will. The yellow ribbons are out at my house. I support the troops—alive. I'm not for Saddam, but he and the emir are not worth one American life. If winning this war gives the Trilateralists what they want, then we all will be big losers. The United Nations will supersede our Constitution and our nation will be gone. The "New World Order" is starting out with death for many. It may end with the death of a nation.

NOTES FROM Telstar Guidance

to host foreign exchange students.

Monday, Feb. 4, is the first day of National School Counseling Week and has been specifically designated as Community/Parent Day at Telstar Regional High School. The Telstar Guidance staff and teaching faculty are providing community members and parents with the opportunity to visit school through the day while school is in session. Parents are encouraged to schedule appointments in the guidance office for conferences with teachers at a later time. In the evening, during the District Guidance Advisory meeting at 7 p.m., Telstar foreign exchange students will provide Council and community members with an international dessert and a short presentation. Victoria Ojeda, Rafael Gisin, Elena Quesada, Pedro Martin and Gianni Vitola-Ferriz will introduce themselves and their countries and share some of their experiences with us.

Here are some introductions from these students:

"My name is Victoria Ojeda. I am 16 years old and a sophomore. I'm not exactly an exchange student, but I came from a foreign country. I used to live in Mexico. The name of my state is Durango, and the name of my town is El Precidio. Durango is on the north side of Mexico.

I arrived in Maine on March 18, 1990. Soon after arriving in Bethel, I entered Telstar Regional High School.

At the beginning it was really hard to adapt to the different system. One of the changes was the school itself. My old school was smaller than Telstar. Another was getting to meet all the different people.

For me, adapting to the language wasn't too hard because I already knew it. My mother is an American and I have always talked English with her.

Relating to school, Mexican students are very interested in sports. They actively participate by either playing or supporting our teams. We all cheer for each other. Students are, in general, interested in helping and supporting each other.

The transportation method is different also. Since the school is in a different town, we have to use a public bus which means we pay for our transportation.

The school day is different in Mexico as teachers change classrooms each period instead of students. I like the fact that here I can help choose my classes where in Mexico they are planned for me. Also there are more subjects, as well as sports, to choose from here at Telstar.

"Hello, my name is Pedro. I'm 19 years old and I'm from Madrid, Spain. I stay with the Tom Remington family at the River View Motel. I like skiing very much and I think that I am very lucky to live so close to Sunday River. My host family is my ski coach too.

I'm a senior in Telstar High School and my English is improving since I came here.

In Madrid I like to go to the cinema and to the disco. I live near the King's palace and the Spanish "White House" where the president of Spain lives.

I love the United States because it's a beautiful country and the people are fine."

"Hi everybody. I'm Rafael. I'm from Eglisau, a little town in Switzerland.

I want to introduce you to my host family, Rick and Barb Lewis and their children, Jamie and Matt. They are a great family. I'm enjoying the time at my American home.

As a senior, I'm attending Telstar High School for one year. Because I was so friendly welcomed, Telstar fastly became "my" school. I made a lot of friends here. I enjoy sports very much, especially skiing now. I love to be able to go skiing daily (I wasn't able to do that back home).

Although Eglisau is very different from Bethel, they both have at least one thing in common: I know very nice people in both of them."

"My name is Elena Quesada. I am an exchange student from Costa Rica. My host family is Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Grover, Martha and Lydia. They are a great family. My program is: Central American Peace Scholarship (CAPS). The program aims to bridge international understanding between Central America and the United States.

The CAPS program is an international education exchange conducted by the National 4-H Council in cooperation with the National 4-S Foundation "Funac" of Costa Rica and the State Land-Grant Universities and the U.S.A. The CAPS program is funded by the United States Agency for International Development (USAID).

I am 16 years old and I am studying at Telstar High School. My scholarship is for nine months duration. I came here last year in June and I will return to Costa Rica in February. I like the state of Maine, the snow, and I am happy to be here."

"I am Giannina Vitola-Ferriz and I am the exchange student from Uruguay, South America. I came from the capital of Uruguay, Montevideo, which population is about 1,500,000. Now I am in Bethel, a small town in Maine with a population of 2,000. Although Montevideo differs from Bethel, I enjoy living here. Living surrounded by trees, lakes, rivers, and mountains was my dream. For that reason I cannot believe that where I am living is real, and that such beauty can exist. But it is real.

Nature is beautiful, and beautiful is Bethel. I really love Bethel because I found wonderful people who made me feel at home. I am very comfortable and above all I am very happy. That was the first impression from this town: wonderful and friendly people.

People like you are not found everywhere. My host family, the Gillies, as well as my friends at Telstar High School are just great people who I will never forget. I will not be able to forget such a special town and people ever."

Help landing that job

Surviving the Job Hunt is the title of a course currently underway as part of the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program's winter term.

The five week course, led by Heather Carson of the Telstar faculty, is designed to help participants in developing effective resumes and cover letters and in preparing for successful job interviews. The class is using the computer capabilities at Telstar in their resume preparation, as well as materials from the Resource Center at the Adult Education office. The structure of the class allows the participants to share their experiences in the job hunt, as well as to give each other feedback on their resumes.

According to Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell, the job hunt class will be repeated in the spring semester. "Although our program has helped many people on a one-to-one basis through the CareerSearch process and in making the Resource Center available, the missing ingredient has been the group setting which allows those seeking jobs or contemplating career change to learn from others in similar situations. This class provides this, while the participants work on the necessary materials and techniques of the successful job hunt." The class met for the first time on Jan. 23, delayed because of an earlier storm day. A few places are open for this session.

Anyone who is interested in joining the job hunt class, or in enrolling for spring term, may call the Adult Education office, 824-2780.

F.A.C.T. will hold follow-up workshop on freshman awareness

The Freshman Awareness Committee at Telstar will host a follow-up on Tuesday, Feb. 5, from 8:30-11:30 a.m. at the Bethel Inn Conference Center for the 1990-91 freshmen. Similar to those discussed at the two-day workshop held last fall, the topics will focus on goal-setting, sexuality, and aspirations—all ideas that freshmen are involved in.

Special guest speaker Maureen Page, R.N., from Tri-County Health Services will make a presentation called "Sexpectations." Also, Bill Preble of the University of Maine Aspirations Compact has been invited to talk about aspirations and those of certain individuals, such as Samantha Smith.

Haircuts to benefit Telstar Outward Bound

Holly Roberts, who works at Hair and Co., is offering $7 hair cuts for both men and women on Saturday, Feb. 2, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

All proceeds will benefit Telstar High School's Outward Bound program. Appointments or walk-ins are welcome. Hair and Co. is located on Main Street, Norway, next to V.I.P.

OUR FRIEND FLOPPY—Elementary FUCUS instructor Kay Chadbourne has been visiting kindergarten classes to help pupils learn about computers. Here, she works with Woodstock Elementary School kindergartners, who will soon be using their classroom computer for practicing math, language and problem-solving activities.

By MARTA CLEMENTS

We are trying to carry on with business as usual, despite our fears and concerns over the war in the Persian Gulf. Several classes are writing letters to our soldiers, and we are collecting food items. We are trying to let our children talk about their fears, and we are doing what we can to reassure them.

The kindergarten classes have switched schedules. The morning group now comes in the afternoon and vice versa. They are learning the letters O and P. They are making the O out of pipe cleaners and the P with popcorn. They are making beautiful six-sided snowflakes for decorations. They are continuing their numeral identification games. Two new activities for all include the painting easel and a listening station for listening to, and reading along with, stories.

The first-graders are beginning a new reading book and corresponding workbook, "A Shiny Golden Path." New sounds involving their picture cards are short I, with the baby pig, the ck sound with the crackling nut and all the r sounds with the roaring lion. They are learning about Martin Luther King Jr., and have been singing songs about him with our music teacher, Mr. Barker. In math the class is working on estimating activities using sets of objects. They are beginning measurement. Each child is bringing in rice to use for measurement, as well as different sizes of containers for comparison measuring. They are participating in a fun art activity. They are sponge painting winter objects with white paint; snowmen, snowflakes, snow forts and snow pictures.

The second-graders are experimenting with buoyancy in science. They are making clay boats and checking to see how many gram weights can be held in their boats. They are observing if the shape of their boats makes any difference. The money will be deposited in the bank until needed to pay for computers. Thanks again to parents and friends in West Paris.

Crescent Park School's perfect attendance roll

Grade 1: Sadie Cole, Joel Doyon, LaStasia Hebert, Rebecca Swan, Jaqui Troup, Ryan Wheeler.

Grade 2: Iain Bean, Jessica Mathias, Bobbie Lynn McKenna, Holly Merrill, Marie Ward.

Grade 3: GT Kimball, Kasey Mason, Tony Merrill, Emily Parsons, Carrie Rolfe, Anna Sysko, Jason York, Sarah Rackliffe, Larry Ward, Chelsey Bartlett, Eric Cheney, Tracey Gibbs.

Grade 4: Lee Boynton, Jeffrey Brough, Malinda Gillett, James Haines, Jamie Johnson, Miranda Provencher, Jenny Mae Wheeler, Victoria Coolidge, Jeffrey Laughton, Rodney Levesque, Nina Perkins, Billjoee Sweetser, Jonathan Wakefield, Wendy Walker.

Grade 5: Brandin Geisler, Dana Howe, Betsy Kuzik, Julie Ludlam, Kate Nickerson, Fawne Packard, Grayson Wakefield, Naomi Bean, EJ Cheney, Brent Lake, Nathan Whitworth.

Grade 6: Macy Blaisdell, Malinda Cooley, Brett Harvey, April Leonard, Kendra Morrison, Kevin Pond, Kristy Walker, Hana Seames.

Community access TV meeting is rescheduled

The next meeting of the Community Access Television Ad Hoc Committee has been rescheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 6, at 7 p.m. at Telstar High School.

The agenda for the meeting includes reports by various subcommittees working on an access channel for the communities served by United Video in the Bethel area. Despite the difficulty the Ad Hoc Committee has had in finding acceptable dates for meetings, subcommittees are busy researching issues of governance, funding, equipment and community needs.

Anyone interested in the access channel may obtain further information from the Adult Education office, 824-2780.

and the class is studying simple machines. They are making and demonstrating work with levers, pulleys, axes and wheels. In math they are working on telling time. They are practicing writing whole words in cursive. Mr. Burke is reading everybody's favorite story, "James and the Giant Peach," by Ronald Dahl.

The fourth-graders are concentrating on oral book reports this quarter. In science they are learning about the forces of friction. They are studying the differences in sliding vs. rolling. They are experimenting to see how grease decreases the amount of friction.

My fifth-graders are learning to distinguish between to, too, and two. We are going to tackle their, there and they're next. We are finishing up our study of the American Revolution and have learned the "Concord Hymn." We are now back to Girl's Week and only the girls will be learning a poem this week. Mr. Tim Berger is visiting us on Friday, as part of our drug abuse prevention program.

The sixth-graders are all reading the book, "The Phantom Tollbooth." They are writing letters to soldiers. They are continuing to work with fractions under the direction of their teacher, Mr. Koch, and our math coordinator, Mr. Tame. They are using manipulatives in a hands-on approach to focus on understanding the concepts. They are also working with a challenging new math book, "Math in Stride." In science they are concentrating on the circulatory system. They are learning all about the heart and the path of the flow of blood from chamber to chamber. They pose the question—How many miles of blood vessels are in the human body? Would you believe 100,000 miles? That is the same distance as four times around the earth.

The success of our Walk-a-thon continues to amaze us. Money will be accepted at any time, but to qualify for prizes, all money must be in by Monday morning. Winners will be announced. The money will be deposited in the bank until needed to pay for computers. Thanks again to parents and friends in West Paris.

SCHOOL LUNCH MENU!

WEEK OF Feb. 4-8

SAD #44—

Monday: Sloppy Joe on rice or biscuit, peas and carrots, fruit, biscuit and butter, milk.

Tuesday: Macaroni and cheese (Telstar choice of main dish), bologna slice, tomato wedge, pineapple upside down cake, bread and butter, milk.

Wednesday: Hotdog, french fries, green beans, brownie, bread and butter, milk.

Thursday: Hamburg cheese pizza, corn, mixed desserts, bread and butter, milk.

Friday: Pita pocket with ham, cheese, lettuce, etc., chicken noodle soup, salad, fruit, milk.

Adult Education

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program will sponsor several short courses and one-session programs during the first week of February. Included are programs on motorcycle safety, preparation for the commercial drivers license exam, bridge, hand quilting, and home improvement.

A two-week Hand Quilters Workshop will be held on Saturdays, Feb. 2 and 9, from 9 to noon, at Telstar under the direction of Nancy Donnelly. Participants will have the opportunity to perfect their quilting stitch while creating a white-on-white pillow top. Techniques included will be design transfer, marking techniques, and the finer points of stitching for both beginners and intermediates. A supply list is available from the Adult Education office. The cost of the course is $10.

Preparation for the Commercial Drivers License Exam will be held on Feb. 4-6 from 6-9 at Telstar with Bob Larravie, co-sponsored by NOVA. The study course will cover driving safety, transporting cargo and passengers, air brakes, and combination vehicles, plus a practice test. Cost of the course is $5.

A special bridge clinic on Tuesdays, Feb. 5 and 12, "Is Bridge for You?" will be offered by Sig Sysko. This will allow those who think they might like to take up this popular activity to check it out without committing to a full-length course. Sysko's classes are traditional favorites with senior citizens in the SAD #44 area, and he plans to offer a beginners class in the spring if there is interest. The clinic will run from 7-9 both nights at Telstar and will have a fee of $8 for those under 62.

Householders with wet basements will have the opportunity to learn about solutions from Paul Thornfield of Western Maine Home Inspections in a seminar entitled "How to Solve Wet Basement Problems," set for Tuesday, Feb. 5, from 6-8:30 at Telstar.

Moisture and bulk water control in basements and crawl spaces will be on the agenda. Cost of the seminar is $4. There will be a motorcycle safety day-long course on Saturday, Feb. 9, at Telstar from 8-4:30, in cooperation with Daigle's Driving School. This course is required for those who seek a motorcycle license. The cost of the course is $65. Pre-registration and payment by Feb. 5 is required.

To enroll in any of the classes, call the Adult and Community Education office, 824-2780.

Woodstock School

A message from the principal

We have very quickly passed the midpoint of the school year. It has been a busy year which often makes the time pass more rapidly.

I am very pleased with the improvement I have found reviewing the progress reports for this quarter. Many positive events are happening at the Woodstock Elementary School, which contribute to academic growth and citizenship of its students.

The entire school benefits from the positive encouragement evident from the Woodstock parents. This key factor builds necessary support for students as they grow and develop into important members of the community. Parent support is appreciated by the entire staff at the school, and is demonstrated by the "Wonderful Woodstock Children."

I encourage parents to continue to establish lines of communication with the school staff. We need to know your positives, along with your concerns. Your comments are always welcome at Woodstock.

Thank you again for your support.

Bus riders to Rumford on Wednesday were Elizabeth Sennett, Anne Fox and Mary Thurston.

Callers at Alma Hewey's were daughter Louise Powell of Hale, Bernice Wing of Dixfield and Elliott Lang of New Hampshire.

Florence Hall visited Arvilla Feener on Wednesday.

Mary Thurston and Anne Fox attended the lunch at C.E.B. on Tuesday. Judy Hall of Roxbury called on Florence Hall.

Nancy Fox of Bethel and Betsy York of South Paris visited Anne Fox Sunday afternoon.

Nephew Louis Hall Jr. of Rumford called on aunt Florence Hall Thursday morning.

Thought for the day: Growing old gracefully is just mind over matter—if you don't mind, it doesn't matter. Calvary Congregational Church Sunday School was led by Lorena Simmons. On this day tribute was paid to our country and all those who are serving here and abroad. Pastor Grover gave a special prayer. "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" was sung with other patriotic hymns. Lorena had an object lesson presenting the "Salvation" message. Sunday school for all ages. As a church we exalt Christ. Study the Scriptures with us and see God's plan for our world today.

Rev. Donald Grover's message: "The Spirit in Person," I Peter 3:18-22. That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead thou shalt be saved, Romans 10:9.

Closing hymn: "The Wonder of it All."

Only one life, it will soon be past; only what's done for Christ will last.

THERE IS NO BOMB IN GILEAD, but a bomb-shaped sounding weight does hang below the cable car used by the state and the U.S. Geological Survey for measuring the water depth and flow in the Wild River. POSSIBLE PURCHASE—Members of the Bear River Grange have entered into negotiations with Newry selectmen to agree on a purchase price for the grange hall. Grange membership has dwindled over the years, and now the organization may sell the building to the town, which would use and maintain it but still allow the grange to meet there.

Newry is negotiating purchase of grange hall

Newry selectmen have entered into negotiations with the Bear River Grange to purchase the grange hall.

Selectman Steve Wight said the town is in need of a larger hall. The municipal building seats about 100, and there is sometimes an overrun at various town meetings.

Wight also said that if the town withdraws from SAD #44 there is the possibility that town offices may be relocated at the grange hall. Withdrawal plans, if approved, call for building a school on the town office site.

Grange Master Owen Wight said about 20 people currently belong to the Bear River Grange.

"It's too much for us to keep up," he said. "The only condition of the sale would be that we still are allowed to meet there," Owen Wight said.

Townpeople gave selectmen approval at a special town meeting this spring to look into the purchase price of the grange hall.

John Salome, uncle Mike and auntie Sandy Spencer, Chris, Michelle and Joshua, we love you and support and pray for you while serving in Saudi Arabia.

Saturday, Jan. 19, I went to Elmo and Marie Kuvaja's to a birthday party for Gertrude Birney and Timmie Kuvaja. There were quite a few there to enjoy the delicious refreshments plus three cakes and ice cream. Then that night Mary Smith and I went to the Andy Frechette benefit dance at West Paris Grange Hall. A very good crowd, $425 was realized.

Sunday, Jan. 20, I got Gertrude Birney and we went to the Heywood Club for a surprise bridal shower for Kristine Bailey. She is going to wed Timmie Kuvaja March 5. Delicious refreshments and the bridal cake was beautiful and such lovely gifts. Then we visited Anita Lowell, her husband Felt at Stephens Memorial Hospital that day. She is home now.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Paine on the death of his mother.

Monday, Jan. 21, after the doctors appointment I called on Mr. and Mrs. Herman Card to wish them a happy 52nd anniversary.

I hear correspondent Olive Davis of South Woodstock is at home after being at Stephens Memorial Hospital. I know with Esther Davis' care that you will be "flying" around soon. Get well.

Saturday, Feb. 2, a dance at West Paris Grange. Richard Felt and Mike Spencer and Joshua were in Massachusetts for a couple of days Jan. 17-19.

Callers: Joe Vatcher, Howard Anderson, and Sherry Thayer who brought Jason and we visited Richard and Barbara Felt. It was so cold for a few days.

Helen Peterson and Sandra Maxwell from Massachusetts visited Mrs. Roberta Isley over the weekend.

Vernie and Waltie Inman and Tony Bouchard spent the past weekend with Vicky, Sandy and Brant Sanborn in North Conway, N.H.

Gordon and Sally Doughty were in Westford, Mass. visiting Richard and Marcie Gannister and Chelmsford, Mass. visiting Kay Doughty last weekend.

Left out of my last week's news—I reported that Beverly Stevens was elected treasurer and Jim Burke was elected Clerk of the board of management of the Universalist Church.

The Historical Society met on Monday evening for an oyster stew supper prepared by Milton and Vernon Inman. Strawberry shortcake was served for dessert furnished by DeDe Chase, Joyce Lamb, Ida Gurney and Virginia Hyam. There were 23 present, so it was a good turn out despite the frigid weather. The entertainment committee, Carroll and Mione Record, had engaged Ed Record to show slides of Vietnam and local scenery was provided by Lloyd Record. The next meeting will be Feb. 18 preceded by a potluck supper in charge of Lempi Cyr and Virginia Hyam. Eleanor Inman will be in charge of the entertainment.

Notes from the West Paris Public Library:

Applications for participation in the Read-a-thon for Maine Multiple Sclerosis Society are available at the library. Readers in the elementary classes are encouraged to participate.

Large print books given to the library recently are: "Murder in the Rose Garden" by Elliot Roosevelt; "Murder at the Kennedy Center" by Margaret Truman; "Journey" by James A. Michener; and "Feather on the Moon" by Phyllis A. Whitney.

Other recent additions are: "Meridian" by Philippa Gregory; "The Women in His Life" by Barbara Taylor Bradford; "Messiah" by Lynn Bolock; "Leah's Love Story" by Susan E. Kirby; "Snowflakes and Shining Drums" by Louise K. Tintle; "Programmed for Danger" by Karen McCullough; "Daddy" by Danielle Steel; "The Black Swan" by Philippa Carr; "The Black Candle" by Catherine Cookson; "Simply Barbara Bush" by Donna Radcliffe; "The Day Kennedy Was Shot" by Jim Bishop; "Leave Yesterday Behind" by Lynn Bolock; "Where the Heart Seeks Shelter" by Anne Ladley. This is only a partial listing.

Books for younger readers include: "Benji and the Barking Bird" by Margaret B. Graham; "Katy No Pocket" by E. Payne; "It's Too Noisy" by Joanne Cole; "The Little Engine That Could" by Watty Piper; "The Lost Puppy" by Frank Asch; "Thunder Cake" by Patricia Palacco; "Dorothy's Dream" by Kady Denton; "Phil the Ventriloquist" by Robert Kraus.

In the basement are books of all kinds which may be purchased for a small price. Hours at the library are Monday, 3-5; Wednesday, 1:30-7; and Friday, 1:30-5.

David Preble, Prim's Pharmacy
How to Choose the Best Pain Reliever

Pain relievers are among the most commonly used of the non-prescription medicines. Billions of dollars are spent by the public for relief of pain associated with headache, arthritis, bursitis, muscle soreness, premenstrual syndrome (PMS), and other conditions. For headache alone, Americans spend approximately $400 million each year for nonprescription medicines. The most popular products contain aspirin, acetaminophen, and/or ibuprofen. Which pain reliever is the best? Here are three tips on how to select a product:

1. Discuss the pain with your pharmacist to help determine its possible cause or causes. A common cause of headache, for example, is sinus congestion. A properly selected decongestant may provide better pain relief than pain reliever medicines alone.

2. Be aware of potential side effects and interactions associated with pain relievers. Avoid aspirin during pregnancy or if there is a history of intestinal bleeding. Aspirin and ibuprofen interact with a number of prescription medicines. Discuss this possibility with the pharmacist.

3. Resist purchasing products simply because they are highly advertised. Less advertised products often are just as effective.

Safe Home Heaters

The winter months often bring high heating bills. To cut heating costs, many families lower thermostats and use other types of heaters. Faulty or misused heating equipment is the number one cause of home fires, resulting in hundreds of deaths and injuries and millions of dollars in property losses annually. Many fires could be prevented by following these safety tips.

1. No matter what kind of heater you use, be sure it has the Underwriters Laboratory (UL) label.
2. Keep at least three feet of space around any heater. If a piece of furniture or other object near the heater feels hot, it's too close.
3. Never leave heaters unattended. Always turn them off when you're away from home.
4. Make sure you have adequate wiring and outlets to handle the electrical demand needed for an electric space heater.
5. Look for space heaters with thermostat controls that automatically turn off when overheated. Some units also have a tipover switch that shuts off the heater when toppled.
6. Use only water-clear kerosene (grade K-1) in a kerosene heater. Yellow or colored kerosene means contaminated or inferior fuel. Never use gasoline.
7. Since kerosene heaters produce pollutants, keep a window open for ventilation.

Recent activities of the East Andover Community Club include the compiling of a hostess list, exchanging names for a mystery sister, and their annual election of officers which are: President, Betty Moore; vice presidents, Barbara Meisner and Evelyn Bell; secretary, Violet Swain. The group also made a donation to the Calvary Congregational Church Sunday School Program and delivered a fruit plate to Phyllis Farrar. Their next meeting will be held at Blanche Snyder's on Feb. 12 at 6 p.m.

The Ladies Aid will gather on Feb. 13 at Betty Moore's for a luncheon meeting. Please bring a skein of yarn to donate for the children's mittens that Marion Bodwell will be knitting. The club will be meeting twice monthly beginning in March, on March 6 and 20.

The Recreation Committee met with club representatives involved with the Feb. 20 Winter Carnival to finalize plans. The Winter Carnival will have events for all interests. The Pineland Ski Club will hold winter races and activities, the Snow Valley Snow Goers will hold a polka run, obstacle courses

Another week gone by and soon February will be starting us in the face. Time flies fast and when one looks back they wonder where all the time went.

Another cloudy morning here and rather cold but it is winter in Maine and I never have seen one but what we got cold weather. They say colder tomorrow so enjoy the weather today.

I believe as my brother does who was in World War II that these demonstrators are doing more harm than good when out there on the streets protesting against the war. What good does it do now? Their actions only make the boys over there have less faith that the folks at home are behind them so if they really want to help they should pray for the soldiers and hope the war is a short one. Their prayers will probably do lots more good than their protesting. None of us like to think of there being a war but as long as there is we better believe in our country and boys fighting for it.

Russell had to get his snow blower to a mechanic to get it fixed last Monday so after lunch, Tom and Russell took it to be fixed. We were afraid by the reports that we might get snow before it was returned home but snow didn't get enough to amount to anything. Tom had been bowling Monday morning and in the evening he and Peggy came down to play cards. We have a good time even when we lose.

Tuesday was quite a day. The water works weren't working right and we didn't have water for awhile. Russell went to investigate and found the well down to twenty inches which was not right so began to try to find the trouble. The pump was running constantly so he shut it off. We had some water and Peggy was gone as well as Tom so we could wait awhile for water. Tom got home and called Lawrence in Florida and he thought like Russell that there was a leak somewhere and told them where they should look for it. There used to be two trailers below where ours is now and the pipes were shut off when the trailers were moved but Lawrence believed the leak was there. Tom and Russell couldn't find it so called David Yate's wife when she got home and when David could, he called back.

After letting the well fill up some with the pump off, we all drew water to have to use. That evening, David and Alvin came down to see what they could do about the situation. They found where they thought the pipes went and as Alvin used to live in one of the trailers he knew more about where the pipes were so with the help of the back hoe they got busy digging to find the leak and fix it. It took them some hours to do the job but it got accomplished about eleven thirty to quarter of twelve. A long days work for both of them as they both work during the day elsewhere. We were grateful to have the water back to use and grateful that the boys were able to find the leak and fix it.

Tom had appointments to keep on Tuesday and I went to Fryburg to the dentist so all in all it was a busy day for all of us where we had to do differently where water was concerned.

Peggy was at work on Thursday doing a job on her car and content that she tends to each week. A full and busy day for her so she was tired when she got home.

Been having trouble with my car steaming up the windows as well as the windshield would be covered with steam so where I was in trouble with fibrosis on Friday, Tom went along to bring Peggy back and she drove my car to the garage to have it fixed. Russell went with her in the afternoon to pick it up after it was finished. Had to have a new core in the heater.

Wynona and the girls were up in the afternoon and had supper with us. She had been over to see her doctor for a treatment.

Peggy went to the benefit dance at West Paris Grange Saturday evening. Sunny morning was busy for me and in the afternoon, Tom, Peggy, Russell and I went to East Bethel to visit Barbara and Rudy Honkala. We had a good visit and they sure have a plentiful number of birds at their home. The bluejays sure looked fat and hardy and the chick-a-dees were busy at the feeder as well as a nuthatch or two. Fun to watch the birds.

Jay Whittemore and friend Lisa stopped in to see the Lovejoys recently, as did Sue Kilpatrick and her mother.

The benefit dance was a great success Saturday evening and West Paris Grange as well as the Richard Felt band would like to thank everyone who participated in helping to make it a grand evening. Ninety-one tickets were sold and refreshments also. It is great to see folks turn out to help another who is in need.

February second will be their next dance date so come for a good time again. The Grange would like to see as large a crowd as they had for the benefit dance. Take care one and all and have a good week ahead.

As this comes to you; it will be nearly our second month of the year, the shortest. Its flower is the primrose and its gem the amethyst. The name comes from the Latin word meaning to purify. It is also the "Birthday Month". People great in music, writing, invention and people who devoted their lives to their country. The lives of two Washington and Lincoln had similarities. Neither was eager for fame or power. Both were presidents, but before their terms expired they grew to be tired men and longed only to return home and pass their days in peace and quiet among their loved ones.

Today I again walked with nature and although the waysides were white and the air tingling I spent an hour enjoying it.

I listened to the rustle of the oak leaves. The fragrance of the nippy air was a pleasure for I was warm.

When I reached the ledge by the roadside, I longed to be at the top. Many times I go there in the summer but today I just looked. I knew what it was like up there among the crystal coated trees looking out over the valley to the mountains beyond. But I also knew it would be unwise to try; I might not enjoy sliding down an ice slide. So I walked on.

I noticed the animal tracks in the snow. Underneath and among the winter trees, woodland creatures find their way. Within their sheltered haunts are the foxes with graceful beauty gliding from stone fences across the snow. Within a hollow trunk sleeps the raccoon, waiting, just waiting. The rabbit, the partridge, the mouse with the lacy trail and the white-tail deer biding time 'til another spring. A large one had crossed my lawn in the night. I returned and was greeted by "Dee-dee-dee".

Again I looked through my windows across the shimmering snow to the mountains of mystery and fascination. Night was creeping in.

As I finish this, it's another day, our coldest so far, but I went for a half mile

Newry

By JIM ANDERSON

Beware; the Irish are coming to Newry and Bethel area on Feb. 3. That is citizens from Newry, Ireland. Ladies of the Ladies Circle of Newry: please come to the next meeting at the home of Olive Anderson. Mother has had me fixing and a painting just for your visit. Bring sandwiches with you.

Bowling News: Last week I goofed. It was Gil Seelye that was the one with a high string. This week, Jan. 23, was Karlene who had a high string of 100.

"Little" Betsey was on her way to having another week of high triple, but the rolling pin queen beat her in the third game with her 100 points. The Newry Gang this week consisted of "Ma" Clark, Karlene Bachelier, "The French Connection" Gil Seelye, Bea Lowell, Eleanor Davis, Sylvia Wight and Olive "Boss Lady" Anderson. Guests were Rena Powers and myself.

While the ladies bowled and chatted, I played pinball. Afterwards, James the driver, Olive Anderson and Rena Powers spent a few minutes in downtown Rumford. We all then went to Ma's Place to eat and then shop.

On Jan. 18, Bea Lowell and Frank Lowell Sr. went to Strong to have lunch. On the way back, they managed to avoid an accident in Rumford town and had to drive at 20 miles per hour all the way back home to the Branch Road from Rumford. They got home alright.

On Jan. 21 at 7 p.m. there was a meeting of the Newry Fire Department at which new by-laws were approved. They are coming to Newry and Bethel area on Feb. 3. That is citizens from Newry, Ireland.

Plan of action

prehensive regional policy and action program that will maintain the integrity of the land and provide for sustainable human communities for this and future generations.

To that end, we recommend the following:

- Since many lands of overriding public importance are immediately threatened with changes that could permanently degrade their natural integrity, the state and federal governments as well as private land trusts should step up efforts to acquire key tracts in the northern forest region.

Action is needed now to acquire, from willing sellers, key lands or interest in lands (such as conservation easements) to protect the health of forest ecosystems, maintain public access, and provide sustained economic benefits. Available tools include private conservation initiatives, state acquisition programs, the new Forest Legacy Program, and federal and joint state/federal acquisition funded by the Land and Water Conservation Fund.

A coordinated approach toward land acquisition must be formulated as soon as possible. Both emergency and long-term land acquisition needs must be integrated into such an approach. New programs and sources of funding, in addition to the full array of existing tools, will likely be needed.

- Federal authorizing legislation should be passed to formally establish the Northern Forest Lands Council and to provide strong direction to ensure that it responds to public needs and concerns on the state, regional, and national levels.

In light of the national, as well as regional and local significance of the northern forest lands, it is essential that the NFLC be a full partnership between the states and the federal government. It is par-visory committee, with local, regional, and national representation, should be formed as well to ensure full public involvement in the NFLC's deliberations.

- A detailed inventory of the region's natural features, biological integrity, and economic base is needed to ensure that the public has the information needed to make decisions on the region's future.

This information must be provided as soon as possible by either the NFLC II or a combination of the NFLC and other federal, state and private initiatives. The inventory should include the region's most important natural features as well as its social and economic resources; a thorough assessment of the health of northern forest ecosystems and the stability of local communities that depend on them; and a projection of the cumulative impacts of various forces on the region's lands and people. The public should be fully involved in formulating and guiding the course of the inventory to ensure that it provides the necessary information.

- The Congress should pass a new "Omnibus Northern Forest Lands Protection Act," and the legislatures of all four states should pass companion legislation to provide for coordination of existing programs, establishment of new programs where needed, and a regional focus for protection efforts.

The goal of the Act would be to provide for the permanent protection of the northern forest lands region's natural systems, social benefits, and economic resources. The Act's objectives would be to establish coherent public policies, to restore healthy ecosystems, to ensure traditional public access, and to promote sustainable resource-based economies while assisting in the diversification of those economies.

Land protection and economic assistance strategies would be formulated and implemented through [The forests] are seriously threatened by major changes, in ownership, management and use, ... action must be taken soon.

ticularly important that the public be fully involved if the NFLC is to accurately assess the needs of the region's lands and people and formulate credible and workable solutions.

Through authorizing legislation, specific guidance should be given by the Congress regarding NFLC membership, responsibilities of state and federal participants, a formal process for public involvement, the roles of technical and citizen advisory committees, and the scope and objectives of the council's work. The NFLC should include members from the four key federal agencies: the Environmental Protection Agency, National Park Service, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and U.S. Forest Service.

If an interim NFLC is formed before authorizing legislation is passed by the Congress, it should operate with clear administrative guidance from the Congress and the governors. An interim citizens ada state/federal/private partnership. A variety of strategies would be used, including cooperative agreements with landowners, public and landowner education, tax and other incentives, land use planning and regulation, economic assistance programs, and state and federal land acquisition.

- A northern forest alliance should be formed as a broad-based coalition of concerned private organizations and individuals.

The objectives of such an alliance would be to formulate policy options for the northern forest lands, to provide input into federal and state protection efforts, to advocate public acquisition of appropriate lands, and to inform and involve the public in determining the future of the region. In a number of meetings over the last several months numerous organizations from across the region have expressed a growing interest in such a coordinated effort.

organizations lobbied for the stronger measure in an attempt to eliminate private interests entirely. Takings through condemnation of privately owned land are not authorized under the Legacy program, but would be under legislation for specific park areas yet to be designated. Under greenlining, however, explicit condemnation proceedings to force a sale are often not needed because landowners frequently can only sell land to the government which they can no he said, "passed a resolution in June supporting the proposals that are in there and suggesting Congress work with the states and the federal agencies to advance that agenda. Conservation groups—some 18 or 20 of them—signed onto several different letters supporting this need to move ahead," obviously working together.

Environmental leaders at the conference called for federal acquisition of the entire 26 million acres in what Brock Evans, head lobbyist for the Audubon Society, called the "Northern Forest Lands Campaign."

longer use under the strict regulations.

The NFLC was authorized in 1988 after lobbying by environmental organizations who had begun a campaign for major federal acquisition of private land in northern New England. The Maine Delegation originally opposed including Maine in the plan, but reversed their position after lobbying by the Audubon Society and other environmentalists. Controversy over the real intent of the proposed study land use surfaced when Robert LaBonta, then State Conservation Commissioner, said he feared a "hidden agenda" to justify a federal takeover of private land. Political pressures and assurances that this was not the case later forced LaBonta to apologize.

The U.S. Forest Service's Stephen Harper, author of the NFLC report, said as late as last spring that he was only providing "information" to Congress. "Our study does not make recommendations," he insisted in a letter to the Maine Conservation Rights Institute on May 9, 1990.

Last Nov. 4, however, speaking at a conference sponsored by the New England Environmental Network, Harper said, "The northern New England delegation ... got for this fiscal year which has just started, an appropriation of over a million dollars to continue the Northern Forest process to identify what special tracts are highest priority." Harper added that his "study strongly suggested a conservation program and suggested a number of ways of doing that. The New England Governor's Conference," million for the first year to promote the NFLC agenda by identifying acquisition priorities and coordinating with government agencies for anticipated actions. The funding is allocated as:

- $175,000—operation of NFLC until replaced by the new Council.
- $200,000—operation of new Regional Northern Forest Lands Council to develop a work plan for implementing the Northern Forest Land Study and task force recommendations. The council's role should be outreach and coordination of federal and state implementation programs.
- $400,000—grants to the four states to hire four "resource planning specialists."
- $500,000—matching funds for state land acquisition planning.

Appropriations for the U.S. Forest Service "Forest Legacy" acquisitions are expected next year after regulations are in place.

The Maine Conservation Rights Institute (MECRI) is a non-profit, educational organization dedicated to informing landowners on conservation and land use issues. MECRI encourages landowners to engage in private conservation and to participate in public policy on land use. MECRI believes that well-heeled organized environmentalists, who have been politically successful elsewhere, will cause the loss of important values—including property rights and local community self-determination both long taken for granted in Maine—if landowners and residents do not educate themselves and participate in the political process.

WPCC prayer services for the Middle East

Knowing that there is continuing concern for families, leaders, servicepeople and other affected by the war in the Middle East, the West Parish Congregational Church will continue prayer services begun in January.

Each Sunday evening there will be a time of prayer beginning at 6 and lasting approximately half an hour. The community is invited.

Brian Anderson named to President's List at WCTC

Brian J. Anderson of Bethel has been named to the President's List at Washington County Technical College for the fall semester.

As a student in the heavy equipment operation program, Anderson has demonstrated the necessary work habits and academic excellence required of students for honor recognition at WCTC.

In order to make the President's List, a requirement of 3.75-4.00 grade point average has to be maintained. The student must also be enrolled in 12 credits or more and have no grade below a C.

Washington County Technical College is a member of the Maine Technical College System, with campuses in Calais and Eastport.

Qualifying for The Earned Income Credit

You may be able to reduce your taxes if you have a child and your earned income is less than $20,264.

The credit may be as much as $953, depending on your earned income. You must file a tax return on Form 1040 or Form 1040A to receive the credit, and if you don't owe any tax, you probably will be sent a refund. The qualifications to claim the earned income credit are:

- You must have a "qualifying" child living with you for more than 6 months of the year or full year for a foster child or dependent of a qualifying widow(er).
- Your filing status on your federal tax return must be one of the following: married filing jointly, qualifying widow(er) with dependent child or head of household. There are specific requirements for each filing status.
- You must live in the United States.
- You must have earned income during the year.

Earned income includes wages, salaries, tips, other employee compensation, net earnings from self-employment, and union strike benefits. It also includes anything of value—money, goods or services—that you get from your employer for services you performed, whether or not it is taxable. Examples include quarters and subsistence allowances received by military personnel or the rental value of a parsonage provided to a member of the clergy.

Earned income does not include interest, dividends, welfare benefits, veterans' benefits, pensions or annuities, alimony, social security payments, workers' compensation, unemployment benefits, taxable scholarships or fellowships.

- Both your earned income and your adjusted gross income must be below $20,264.

- You may not take the foreign income credit.

- Your return must be for a 12-month period.

If you think you will be eligible for the earned income credit in 1991, you may choose to get the credit in advance. The credit will be added regularly to your pay.

Further information on the earned income credit, including eligibility requirements, filing status requirements, and definition of "qualifying" child, is in Publication 17, Your Federal Income Tax. For a free copy of the publication, call toll-free 1-800-829-3676. If you need additional help with the earned income credit, call or visit your local IRS office.

One-Time Benefit Just for Seniors

A lot of money and effort is invested in a home. For those 55 or older and selling their home, a tax break is available which could make that investment even more worthwhile.

A one-time exclusion of up to $125,000 of the gain from the sale of a principal residence may be taken by those who qualify.

This "once-in-a-lifetime" exclusion can only be taken by persons 55 or older on or before the date of the sale or exchange of the home. They must have owned and lived in the home for at least three years out of a five year period ending on the date of the sale or exchange. Married persons cannot exclude such a gain if either spouse has excluded a gain from the sale of a home after July 26, 1978. There are important exceptions for disabled individuals and widows/widowers.

Order IRS Publication 523, Tax Information on Selling Your Home, for more information on the exclusion and the exceptions. Call 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676) to order free publications.

Danny Newcomb and David Dolloff appeared before the board to object to Fire Chief Dixon's comment at the former meeting that the two emergency medical technicians, he (Dixon) or Elaine Morton, had to stay in town when the other was out of town in order to cover for each other in case of an emergency. At that meeting Dixon had said Newcomb and Dolloff worked out of town, and were therefore not available.

Newcomb and Dolloff wanted to assure the selectmen and residents that they themselves are certified EMT's, and available a number of hours during the day. Selectman Emerson told them the matter was between them and Dixon, and did not involve the selectmen.

Al Morrison of Kyes Insurance appeared before the board to discuss insurance.

Emerson said he wanted to know, "what we are insured for, what it is costing us, and what we can do to reduce the cost."

Morrison brought details on the town buildings and town vehicles, and gave the selectmen the total cost of both, not excluding the fire department vehicles which will be covered in a new comprehensive fire department policy.

Including a $40,000 addition in coverage to the Town Hall, Morrison told the board the insurance on 13 vehicles would be $8,050 (last year, $10,221) on vehicles (including fire vehicles); and $1,404 on town buildings (last year, $2,012). Morrison will return on the Feb. 5 meeting to discuss with Fire Chief Dixon and the selectmen the proposed new fire department insurance, and to submit to the board a listing of the individual coverage on each town vehicle. He will also give the vehicle insurance total excluding the fire vehicles.

A decision on raising insurance deductibles has been tabled until meeting again with Morrison, since a $1,000 deductible on the town property policy would not cover vandalism on the town common fountain and three monuments, should it occur.

Morrison also told the board the cost is $375 for a $50,000 bonding of both the treasurer and town clerk, and will also submit a cost on a $25,000 bond for a deputy treasurer and deputy town clerk. He also told the board that the town's John Deere loader is covered under general liability for $43,000.

Don Bennett of Bethel, who does computer programming for the town of Newry, the Bethel Inn, the Bethel Water District, and several motels, met with the selectmen to discuss various options regarding a computer system for the Andover Town Office. He stressed his extensive training of town employees in any new system, and will meet with the selectmen at a future date with further cost estimates and information.

In regard to a recent request from Betsy Fisher about planting trees in Andover, Selectman Brian Mills brought information to the board about the Johnny Elmseed program of Vermont which supplies up to 300 free small Dutch elms to a town for joining the organization for $25. Selectman Emerson will contact them by phone to see if the trees are disease resistant, and if they die from salt exposure.

The selectmen tabled a decision on obtaining a chairlift for the Town Hall.

ment. (Any such construction would also require the approval of district voters.)

In other business Monday night, the board approved the following substitute personnel: Elizabeth Robertson as a food service worker, Linda Taylor, Nancy Carroll, Allyson Anne Stone and Ann Wooley as substitute teachers.

The following directors did not attend Monday night's meeting: Betsy White of Andover and Nancy Dewing of Greenwood.

Town budgets

dover Selectmen Rebecca Schachter said, "Our people are in an economically risky condition. We've been very, very conservative on expenditures. We're trying to hold the line on everything."

Emerson said, "We've been really pretty lucky over the past two or three years. When things were better we did a lot of projects." The town hall has already been painted and has a new septic system.

Emerson said he would like to gain approval for updating the town's computer system—purchasing a new computer and new programs. "I hope we go ahead with that," he said, "it will save us a lot in the future." Emerson said he thinks the final budget figure will be close to last year's total.

Newry selectmen are still working on the town's budget, but at least one major expenditure—the fire department—will go down, according to Selectman Steve Wright.

In 1990, the town built a new station on the Sunday River Road. Townspeople last year approved $58,000 to be added to money held in reserve for construction of the station and $18,000 for operating expenses, which included a $13,500 availability fee for the Bethel Fire Department.

But Newry now has a mutual aid agreement with neighboring Bethel and the availability fee has been dropped. This year the selectmen will recommend allocating $22,000 to the town's fire department for operating expenses and new equipment.

Wright also says Newry is undergoing a bookkeeping change. In the past the town has held over surplus amounts in each account and then added at town meeting the amount needed for the year.

The town will now establish a surplus account and zero out all accounts at the end of the year. "At this year's town meeting people will be asked to raise what we'll actually spend for the year," Wright said.

Gilead Selectman Ken Cole said the town has held some budget meetings and is looking to upgrade the fire department and possibly change their ambulance service—both as ways to save taxpayer dollars.

Gilead now contracts with Bethel Rescue for ambulance service. Cole said that while they have had excellent service from Bethel Rescue, other ambulance services may be cheaper, so the selectmen are shopping around.

"Response time will be the key," said Cole. "It's one thing to save a few hundred dollars, but if you lose 15 or 20 minutes in response time, then personally I don't think you save anything."

Also, Cole said, selectmen are asking for $40,000 to upgrade the fire department. They want to purchase equipment that will help the department gain a better insurance rating, and reduce the cost of fire insurance for residents. Cole also said he hopes the fire department can upgrade to the point where Bethel would sign a mutual aid agreement, eliminating the availability fees now paid to Bethel.

West Paris selectman Hugo Heikinen said that town's budget is still in the early stages.

But "We feel that we're pretty much holding even with last year," Heikinen said.

In Bethel, where the new fiscal year does not begin until July 1, Town Manager Madeleine Henley has just begun the budget-building process.

Area selectmen are not the only ones trying to hold the line on spending. The local school assessment makes up the largest single item on town budgets, and the SAD #44 has also taken tentative action to keep any increases down.

The board instructed the district administration to develop a budget for the coming school year that calls for no increase in local property taxes.

While the board vote—which was unanimous—does not commit the board to a "no-new-taxes" position, it does serve to keep the administration's eye on the bottom line as it prepares next year's budget.

ple the truth about nuclear disposal," said Tom Coffin, of the Maine Nuclear Referendum Committee, one anti-nuclear group represented at the meeting.

The debate between the panel and the activist was frequently acrimonious. "I wish you'd stop calling me a liar," panelist Dr. Thomas Eastler said at one point to Philip Merletti, director of Maine Citizens against Nuclear Dumps, who had accused him of obscuring the data on the safety of nuclear storage technology. The local residents who did speak questioned the details of the site selection process, the effect of such a site on the mineral resources of Oxford County, the monitoring of site safety and finally, who is to pay the bill for setting up and maintaining such a site.

Local state representatives Richard Bennett, Al Barth and Ida Luther attended the meeting, as did State Senator Jeff Mills, who explained a bill he has introduced to protect unorganized townships from having a site forced on them.

Mills and Bartlett attempted to keep the debate between the activists and the panel at a civil level, but after little more than an hour of questioning, most of the audience appeared to have had their fill of the rancorous and unproductive dialog.

As local people began filing out Bartlett asked the panel to call the meeting to a close. The request was readily accepted and the meeting came to an abrupt end.

"I think a lot of the local people were intimidated and embarrassed by the whole affair," she said. "If the anti-nuclear people have an axe to grind, fine, but let them grind it in their own backyard."

But she herself, however, noted at least one apparent contradiction in the emphasis, if not the facts, presented by the panel. At one point MLLRWA associate director Matthew Scott referred to the requirement that 60 percent of the voters in a municipality must agree to accept any site proposed by the MLLRWA. "We can't act as an independent agency and force this down anybody's throat," he claimed.

But, Bartlett pointed out later, if no suitable location in the state votes to accept a site, then the matter will go back to the state legislature, which is required by federal law to authorize an in-state site (assuming no other state agrees to accept Maine's waste).

In that case, Bartlett said, the legislature, no doubt following MLLRWA's advice, could vote to establish a site—even over the objections of local residents.

"My biggest concern," she said, "is that people think they can just vote this down and it will go away. But that's not necessarily the case."

Josh White Jr. to perform at Gould

Josh White Jr. will be the featured artist in the Gould Academy Programs in the Arts Series on Thursday, Feb. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Bingham Auditorium.

White has recorded numerous record albums and has performed at some of the finest concert halls throughout the United States, including Carnegie Hall, Madison Square Garden and the Lincoln Center. He has appeared as well at virtually every important folk and jazz festival in Europe and North America. He is the dean of college concert attractions (over 2,000 so far) and a favorite on variety television in Europe, Australia and here in the United States.

In addition to Decca, he has recorded for Mercury, United Artists,

Red Cross to hold benefit Valentine's dance

The annual Red Cross Valentine's dance to benefit the Tri-Country Chapter, American Red Cross will be held Saturday, Feb. 9, at the East Auburn community unit. The event is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. and end at midnight.

Music by the country-rock band Country Magic will be provided for dancing. Other programs of entertainment will include an auction of donated items, a wheel of fortune for those who feel lucky, and a performance by the Navel Cadets.

Ski passes, movie passes, and "get-away" weekends are just a few of the items donated by area businesses for attendees to bid on in the auction, to win on the wheel or as a door prize.

Proceeds from the dance and auction will help support American Red Cross services throughout Androscoggin, Franklin and Oxford counties. Tickets are $5 per person and are available through the Chapter office at 201 Main St. in Auburn, 795-4004.

State police say speed kills in winter storms

Maine State Police are urging motorists to slow down during winter storm conditions. Colonel Andrew E. Demers, Chief of the State Police, said 50 percent of the fatal accidents in Maine since Dec. 1 have been attributed to winter driving conditions. Demers said, "Maine drivers have got to take their foot off the accelerator when driving on ice and snow. We've seen how driving too fast for conditions can cause death and injury."

State Police figures show that between Dec. 1 and Jan. 22, there have been 22 fatal motor vehicle accidents in Maine and storm related conditions were the cause of 11 of those crashes. "It's important to realize that just because you may be driving at the posted speed limit, doesn't mean you are in control of your vehicle," Demers said, "Ice and snow hamper a driver's ability to steer, as well as to stop."

The chief said adjusting your speed and allowing for adequate braking distance are essential safety factors while driving during the winter months in Maine.

Rep. Richard Bennett announces monthly hours in Greenwood

State Rep. Richard Bennett (R-Norway) has announced that beginning in February he will hold regular monthly citizen hours in each of the three towns he represents.

Citizen hours will be held in conjunction with regular selectmen's meetings in Greenwood, Norway and Oxford. "By making myself available at the same time and place as selectmen, I will be providing 'one-stop shopping' for people who want to get in touch with their government," Bennett said.

In Greenwood, Bennett will be available on the first Tuesday of every month from 7-8 p.m. at the Greenwood Town Office. His first citizen hours in that town will be Tuesday, Feb. 5.

"I believe government must be a two-way street. Just as people sometimes need help from their representatives, I need help from my constituents to do my job," said Bennett. "There is a lot of knowledge and expertise residing with the people of Oxford County. Together we can work more effectively to make our county and state better."

"So I encourage all citizens to feel free to visit me during these office hours," said Bennett. "Of course, I am also available anytime by phone at 743-8739 at home and toll free in Augusta at 1-800-423-2900."

Management club will meet at Sudbury Inn

Western Maine Management Club will meet at the Sudbury Inn, Monday, Feb. 4. Social hour is from 5:30-6:30 p.m. with dinner from 6:30-7:30 p.m.

The guest speaker is Patricia Williams, M.D., organizational consultant. The topic will be "Teamwork: The Ultimate Human Resource."

Reservations for the meeting can be made no later than noon time Thursday, Jan. 31, by calling Brenda Faulkingham at 364-4521, Ext. 2220.

FROM THE

Bethel Town Office

I have been working with Dana Douglass and Dan Reich on an oversight with the paperwork on both Spring and Mechanic Streets. We can find no record of easements being given to the town when either of these roads were laid out.

This is more of a problem with Spring Street than Mechanic Street, because Spring Street is slated for work this spring as part of the Downtown Revitalization project. The solution appears to be to gather signed easements from property owners on both streets to be accepted at a Town Meeting. I will be contacting those of you on Spring Street sometime next week. If anyone has any knowledge of the history of this problem, or insight as to a simpler method of resolving it, please let me know.

In other business: the board of selectmen and I have selected several possible police chiefs for interviews. The public access cable television group is intent on establishing a local channel this year. Linda Saunders asks that if you have received a notice in your last sewer bill, please take the time to contact her about the loan/grant program. The bids on the Downtown Revitalization Project will be opened at 2 p.m. on Jan. 31. We hope for some excellent prices.

Next week's column will be devoted to financial issues and the 1992 budget.

Rep. Barth named to Education Committee

Rep. Al Barth of Bethel has been named to the Joint Standing Committee of the 118th Maine Legislature by the House leadership.

This committee has the responsibility for oversight of all public schools and public colleges in Maine. Education represents approximately 53 percent of the state's biennial budget, or about 3.2 billion dollars of state funding.

Barth represents District 49 which includes the towns of Avon, Bethel, Byron, Gilead, Hanover, Lovell, Newry, Rangeley, Upton, Waterford and Weld; the Plantations of Lincoln, Magalloway, Rangeley and Sandy River; and the townships of Albany and Mason.

He has a strong background in education, having worked at Gould Academy for 28 years. In addition, he has taught in the public school system in Australia, in the SAD #44 Adult Education program, in the continuing education program of Husson College, and in the Elderhostel program. He has also served as a school director for SAD #44. The committee has co-chairs, Senator Stephen Estes of York and Representative Nathaniel Crowley from Stockton Springs. There are 13 members of the committee, nine Democrats and four Republicans. Other members include Senators Linda Brown of Camden and Dale McCormick of Monmouth and Representatives Wendy Ault of Wayne, Mary Cahill of Mattawamkeag, James Hardy of Lewiston, Omar Norton of Winthrop, John O'Dea of Orono, William O'Gara of Portland, James Oliver of Portland and Sophia Pfeiffer of Brunswick.

Mills urges tax extension for Maine soldiers

State Senator Jeff Mills has written a letter to Governor John R. McKernan requesting that Maine soldiers be granted an extension for filing their income taxes, similar to the federal extension proposed by President Bush and now pending before the United States Congress.

"During these times, with the pressures of war overwhelming their thoughts, our military personnel should not have to be encumbered by fiscal matters on the homefront," Mills wrote.

"It is a small, but appropriate gesture," said Mills. "These soldiers and their families are dealing with enough anxiety, without adding pressures of tax preparation," he said.

Mills said that the issue was brought to his attention by Arthur Boivin of Rumford, whose daughter, Lynn, is currently serving in Saudi Arabia. Mills indicated that the decision to request the tax extension was reached after he consulted with local legislators, Phyllis Erwin, Ida Luther and Ed Pineau.

Rep. Bennett appointed to joint labor committee

First-term State Representative Richard Bennett has been appointed to serve on the 118th Legislature's Joint Standing Committee of Labor.

The appointment was made upon recommendation of House Republican Leaders.

"Workers Compensation is the most important issue to look at," said Bennett. "It needs an overhaul."

"Independent business people and people working in the woods have been hit hard by the present system. We need to stimulate and stabilize Maine's business environment to provide more opportunities for Maine people," he added.

Bennett represents Greenwood, Norway and Oxford in District 50. He is a

Rumford Point church plans monthly suppers

At the annual meeting of the Rumford Point Church on Jan. 20, it was decided to hold a series of monthly suppers. The suppers will be held on the first Saturday of each month and the proceeds will go towards the new well at the parsonage, to be drilled this spring.

The first supper will be held on Saturday, Feb. 2, from 5:30-8:00 p.m. and will consist of chicken pie and all the fixings. The cost will be $5 for adults and $3 for children 10 and under. Louise and John Morton and Ann and Dave Morton will be in charge of this supper.

Future suppers are planned for March 2, with Norma and Frank Withers and Sue and John Dolloff as planners; April 6, with Barbara Gross and Bess Edl; and May 4, with Barbara and Dick Burns and Fran and Harry Burns. The menus for these future suppers will be announced later. Events are also in the planning stage for June and July.

former Maine Republican Party executive director, and Maine Republican Party secretary. He is also a sales representative for Burlington Homes and Maine Republican Party vice chairman.

The Joint Standing Committee on Labor considers a wide range of labor issues including: wage and hour laws, employment security, unemployment compensation, labor relations, workers' health and safety, job training, and strikes and labor disputes.

Sallie Chisholm appointed to hearing aid board

Sallie Chisholm of Norway has been appointed by Governor John McKernan to serve as a member of the Board of Hearing Aid Fitters and Dealers.

Sallie Chisholm has been licensed in the state of Maine as a hearing instrument specialist for five years. She is presently at the Town Line Professional Building in Norway.

As a member of the board, Chisholm says, "I will plan to make a positive contribution to this committee by representing the consumer of hearing aid purchases. The hearing aid industry is ever growing and changing and I feel strongly that the consumer needs to be ever protected and kept informed as to the regulations of the state of Maine and the federal regulations. It is with great pleasure that I accept this position and promise to uphold the laws and regulations and seek to be an asset on the committee."

Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary met Tuesday evening at the Fire Station with Flossie Bernier, Lorraine Mills, Sally Melville, Mary Stone, Denise Swan, Veronica Melville and Maggie Ring present. They discussed buying some pails and town meeting dinner.

The Greenwood Fire Department was called out Thursday evening to give mutual aid to Woodstock who had a structure fire at the intersection of Route 26 and 232.

The Jackson-Silver American Legion will be attending the Feb. 3 church service at the Locke Mills Union Church and will be taking part in the service, part of which will be a commemoration service for four American Legion chaplains.

Crystal Hebert Lake was guest of honor at a birthday supper at the Locke Mills Union Church Sunday School room on Saturday evening, Jan. 19, in honor of her 40th birthday. Those present besides the guest of honor, husband Al Lake and son Brent were her mother and stepfather, Rowena and Herbie Dunham, her aunts Amy Rugg and Lillian Sowersby, sisters and brothers, Joe and Pam Hebert with Timmie, Amy and Alex; Dolly Olson, Gary and Jeannine Wing with Todd, Marilyn Howe with Lisa and Jeffrey; Theresa and Kenny Koskela with Matthew and Kristina; Paul and Cathy Hebert with Lacey and Tonya; Tony and Rubie Hebert with Jason; and friends Lorraine Mills and Kendrick Scribner. She was presented with the family t-shirt which reads, "This is what 40 looks like," which is passed to each member when they reach that magic age, and gifts and cards.

The Greenwood Fire Department was called out to extinguish a chimney fire at the old Dunham homestead on Howe Hill Friday afternoon.

Program was song by all; game; "Thoughts," a reading by Olive Risko; A skit, "The Diner" by Russell Yates, with her mother, Elmira Doyen, on Saturday evening.

Connie Hindman and her mother, Elmira Doyen, were in Rumford Friday afternoon for a doctor's appointment.

Rotary Club notes

The Bethel Rotary Club welcomed our newest member, Wendy Penley, owner of Mahoosuc Realty, at the Tuesday, Jan. 22, breakfast meeting. President Scott Dennis presented Wendy with her Rotary pin and publications.

After a brief business meeting program chairman of the morning, Rick Whitney, introduced his guests, three Telstar exchange students, Gianni Vitolo from Uruguay told how much she loves this area, her American host family (the Gordon Gillies family) and Telstar High School. Rafael Gisin from Switzerland shared thoughts on similarities of American and Swiss culture. His host family are the Lewises of Flat Road, West Bethel. Pedro Martin from Spain, who is now a famous Telstar soccer player, is enjoying his stay. His host family is the Tom Kingtons of Bethel. Pedro would like to have a career in the movie industry.

Rotarian George Larson gave Rotary information with statistics on how many children in the world die each day from starvation. The numbers approach 40,000 and he challenged Rotary to take action on this.

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The staff and directors would like to thank Barb and Francis Dumont for hosting a wonderful open house/business after hours at their new restaurant at Pleasant River Motel. The food was delicious and atmosphere wonderful—we recommended it highly to all.

Executive Director Robin Zinchuk attended a luncheon on Wednesday at the Maine National Bank in Rumford to celebrate the formation of a new Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) chapter. Score is a volunteer organization with the mission to help small businesses and to give small business people advice on almost anything.

Health Center

The Bethel Area Health Center and SAD #44 Adult Education Department is pleased to announce the first Women's Health Conference to be held March 23 at the Bethel Area Health Center.

The community education committee of Bethel Area Health Center is busy scheduling speakers and planning activities for this full day event.

Many Women's Health conferences are held around the New England area as annual events. These conferences grow yearly in response to women speaking out about what their real health concerns are and requesting the information and support to address those concerns. We as women are the experts concerning what our health needs are. It is hoped that this conference, which is the first (as far as we know) in the Bethel area becomes an annual event.

Topics and presenters are being confirmed rapidly and in approximately one week a brochure will be available with a full agenda and a registration form. The charge for the full day is $15 which includes presentations, screenings and a catered lunch, a sliding scale is available. Save March 23 on your calendar and join us for this first annual event. Call SAD #44 for information, a brochure or to pre-register at 824-2780.

Financial stress may adversely affect the seeking of health care. Area hospitals with Hill-Burton funds are obligated to provide a certain portion of their care on a free or discounted basis. This is a generally unknown fact. Chronic and acute ambulatory care is addressed at the Bethel Area Health Center with the added benefit of the sliding fee scale. During periods when finances are limited and the unemployment rate is high, people are less apt to seek medical care. Health care needs tend to increase with postponement.

A sliding fee scale is available at the Bethel Area Health Center, a federally funded rural health center. This funding allows Bethel Area Health Center to provide health care at a discount to those consumers who meet the federally mandated 1990 CSA guidelines for income and family size. Forty-seven percent of persons living within the Bethel catchment area fit within these guidelines.

Call or come in to the Health Center to discuss how you and your family may benefit from our sliding fee scale. Our number is 824-2193.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

Next weekend promises to be a busy one for Jackson-Silver Post and Unit, American Legion and Auxiliary.

On Saturday, Feb. 2, they will be serving a supper to the public starting at 5 p.m. There will be a choice of baked beans and hotdogs or spaghetti and meatballs. These will be accompanied by rolls and salad. Dessert will consist of gingerbread with whipped topping.

Members of both Post and Unit will attend church in a body on Sunday to commemorate a special day in the history of our country. On Feb. 3, 1943, the SS Dorchester was sunk off the coast of Greenland. There were other ships which sank in World War II, but this one is especially remembered for a special event which occurred as it took place. On deck ministering to the needs of the crew, leading them to lifeboats and handing out life jackets, were four chaplains. They were: Lt. Alexander Goode, a Jewish rabbi; Rev. Father J.R. Washington, a Catholic; Rev. Claude Poling, a Baptist; and Rev. George Fox, a Methodist.

Observing that some of the crew members did not have life jackets, they removed their own and gave

Be your own Valentine

Valentine's Day is all about love and hearts. This Valentine season, consider learning one way to love and care for yourself by being kind to your heart.

"Be Your Own Valentine" is a program on healthy heart eating being sponsored by the University of Maine Cooperative Extension in Oxford County. "It is a practical workshop for anyone interested in developing healthier eating habits," says Extension Educator Wendy Legg Pollock about the program she will be presenting. "It's not just for heart patients or those put on a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet by a physician, but rather it is for anyone wanting to learn how to select and prepare tasty foods that are low in fat, cholesterol, salt and calories."

"Be Your Own Valentine" will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 13, from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Extension Office on Olson Road in South Paris. The program will begin with a "heart healthy" luncheon, followed by a discussion on how to select and prepare food that is good for you and your heart.

There is a $5 fee for the workshop to cover the cost of food and a participant's packet of materials. Preregistration and prepayment is required and due in the Extension Office by Feb. 11. Space is limited, so call the Extension Office today at 743-6329.

them to four men who were without. It was subsequently reported that, as the ship went down, the last that was seen of these brave men was the four of them standing on deck with their arms around one another, in prayer. There are many stories of bravery and self-sacrifice which come out of any such conflict, but this one is particularly moving because it so powerfully symbolizes the "brotherhood" of man.

To the American Legion and Auxiliary, the first Sunday in February is known as Four Chaplains Sunday. Both organizations also support the work of the Chapel of Four Chaplains located in Philadelphia which was dedicated in 1951.

The next regular meeting of both the Post and Unit will be on Feb. 7 at 7 p.m.

THOUGHTS FROM THE
Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

"Come to me, all who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn from me; for I am gentle and lowly in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light." (Matthew 11:28-30).

We are all heavy laden these days with our concern for the war in the Middle East. Whether the war is as near as our worries about a brother or sister or other loved ones fighting in that war or as far away as our compassion for all our brothers and sisters affected by this war, we are weary and heavy laden.

What did Christ mean when he said that he could give us rest; that his yoke is easy and his burden is light? As I have pondered on this over the years, I find I have no final revelation. However, it is interesting to think about a yoke, which for animals, binds them together to work at the same pace and for individual people distributes and balances the weight of a burden so that it is easier to carry (as a canoe, for example). Christ's yoke also binds us together with none other than Christ as the guide. We can share one another's burdens, which lightens our load. We do not have to save the world. Another has done that. We cannot even save ourselves, though we will keep on trying. We do need to seek and speak our truth, in love. Only then can we discover what is illusion and what holds firm.

We can listen to one another's truth, and respect that other. Especially in times like these, we will find our view may differ, for none of us has the final truth. We can pray, each in our own way. In my lifetime this is the fourth war that has involved our country. The prayer that rises is: "Lord, have mercy."

 Danny Newcomb and David Dolloff appeared before the board to object to Fire Chief Dixon's comment at the former meeting that the two emergency medical technicians, he (Dixon) or Elaine Morton, had to stay in town when the other was out of town in order to cover for each other in case of an emergency. At that meeting Dixon had said Newcomb and Dolloff worked out of town, and were therefore not available.

Newcomb and Dolloff wanted to assure the selectmen and residents that they themselves are certified EMT's, and available a number of hours during the day. Selectman Emerson told them the matter was between them and Dixon, and did not involve the selectmen.

Al Morrison of Kyes Insurance appeared before the board to discuss insurance. Emerson said he wanted to know, "what we are insured for, what it is costing us, and what we can do to reduce the cost."

Morrison brought details on the town buildings and town vehicles, and gave the selectmen the total cost of both, not excluding the fire department vehicles which will be covered in a new comprehensive fire department policy.

Including a $40,000 addition in coverage to the Town Hall, Morrison told the board the insurance on 13 vehicles would be $8,050 (last year, $10,221) on vehicles (including fire vehicles); and $1,404 on town buildings (last year, $2,012). Morrison will return on the Feb. 5 meeting to discuss with Fire Chief Dixon and the selectmen the proposed new fire department insurance, and to submit to the board a listing of the individual coverage on each town vehicle. He will also give the vehicle insurance total excluding the fire vehicles.

A decision on raising insurance deductibles has been tabled until meeting again with Morrison, since a $1,000 deductible on the town property policy would not cover vandalism on the town common fountain and three monuments, should it occur.

Morrison also told the board the cost is $375 for a $50,000 bonding of both the treasurer and town clerk, and will also submit a cost on a $25,000 bond for a deputy treasurer and deputy town clerk. He also told the board that the town's John Deere loader is covered under general liability for $43,000.

Don Bennett of Bethel, who does computer programming for the town of Newry, the Bethel Inn, the Bethel Water District, and several motels, met with the selectmen to discuss various options regarding a computer system for the Andover Town Office. He stressed his extensive training of town employees in any new system, and will meet with the selectmen at a future date with further cost estimates and information.

In regard to a recent request from Betsy Fisher about planting trees in Andover, Selectman Brian Mills brought information to the board about the Johnny Elmseed program of Vermont which supplies up to 300 free small Dutch elms to a town for joining the organization for $25. Selectmen Emerson will contact them by phone to see if the trees are disease resistant, and if they die from salt exposure.

The selectmen tabled a decision on obtaining a chairlift for the Town Hall.

 dover Selectmen Rebecca Schachter said, "Our people are in an economically risky condition. We've been very, very conservative on expenditures. We're trying to hold the line on everything."

Emerson said, "We've been really pretty lucky over the past two or three years. When things were better we did a lot of projects." The town hall has already been painted and has a new septic system.

Emerson said he would like to gain approval for updating the town's computer system—purchasing a new computer and new programs. "I hope we go ahead with that," he said, "it will save us a lot in the future." Emerson said he thinks the final budget figure will be close to last year's total.

Newry selectmen are still working on the town's budget, but at least one major expenditure—the fire department—will go down, according to Selectman Steve Wight.

In 1990, the town built a new station on the Sunday River Road. Townspeople last year approved $58,000 to be added to money held in reserve for construction of the station and $18,000 for operating expenses, which included a $13,500 liability fee for the Bethel Fire Department.

But Newry now has a mutual aid agreement with neighboring Bethel and the availability fee has been dropped. This year the selectmen will recommend allocating $22,000 to the town's fire department for operating expenses and new equipment.

Wight also says Newry is undergoing a bookkeeping change. In the past the town has held over surplus amounts in each account and then added at town meeting the amount needed for the year.

The town will now establish a surplus account and zero out all accounts at the end of the year. "At this year's town meeting people will be asked to raise what we'll actually spend for the year," Wight said.

Gilead Selectman Ken Cole said the town has held some budget meetings and is looking to upgrade the fire department and possibly change their ambulance service—both as ways to save taxpayer dollars.

Gilead now contracts with Bethel Rescue for ambulance service. Cole said that while they have had excellent service from Bethel Rescue, other ambulance services may be cheaper, so the selectmen are shopping around.

"Response time will be the key," said Cole. "It's one thing to save a few hundred dollars, but if you lose 15 or 20 minutes in response time, then personally I don't think you save anything."

Also, Cole said, selectmen are asking for $40,000 to upgrade the fire department. They want to purchase equipment that will help the department gain a better insurance rating, and reduce the cost of fire insurance for residents. Cole also said he hopes the fire department can upgrade to the point where Bethel would sign a mutual aid agreement, eliminating the availability fees now paid to Bethel.

West Paris selectman Hugo Heikinen said that town's budget is still in the early stages.

But "We feel that we're pretty much holding even with last year," Heikinen said.

In Bethel, where the new fiscal year does not begin until July 1, Town Manager Madeleine Henley has just begun the budget-building process.

Area selectmen are not the only ones trying to hold the line on spending. The local school assessment makes up the largest single item on town budgets, and the SAD #44 has also taken tentative action to keep any increases down.

The board instructed the district administration to develop a budget for the coming school year that calls for no increase in local property taxes.

While the board vote—which was unanimous—does not commit the board to a "no-new-taxes" position, it does serve to keep the administration's eye on the bottom line as it prepares next year's budget.

 ple the truth about nuclear disposal," said Tom Coffin, of the Maine Nuclear Referendum Committee, one anti-nuclear group represented at the meeting.

The debate between the panel and the activist was frequently acrimonious. "I wish you'd stop calling me a liar," panelist Dr. Thomas Eastler said at one point to Philip Merletti, director of Maine Citizens against Nuclear Dumps, who had accused him of obscuring the data on the safety of nuclear storage technology.

The local residents who did speak questioned the details of the site selection process, the effect of such a site on the mineral resources of Oxford County, the monitoring of site safety setting up and maintaining such a site.

Local state representatives Richard Bennett, Al Barth and Ida Luther attended the meeting, as did State Senator Jeff Mills, who explained a bill he has introduced to protect unorganized townships from having a site forced on them.

Mills and Bartlett attempted to keep the debate between the activists and the panel at a civil level, but after little more than an hour of questioning, most of the audience appeared to have had their fill of the raucous and unproductive dialog.

As local people began filing out Bartlett asked the panel to call the meeting to a close. The request was readily accepted and the meeting came to an abrupt end.

"I think a lot of the local people were intimidated and embarrassed by the whole affair," she said. "If the anti-nuclear people have an axe to grind, fine, but let them grind it in their own backyard."

But she herself, however, noted at least one apparent contradiction in the emphasis, if not the facts, presented by the panel. At one point MLLRWA associate director Matthew Scott referred to the requirement that 60 percent of the voters in a municipality must agree to accept any site proposed by the MLLRWA. "We can't act as an independent agency and force this down anybody's throat," he claimed.

But, Bartlett pointed out later, if no suitable location in the state votes to accept a site, then the matter will go back to the state legislature, which is required by federal law to authorize an in-state site (assuming no other state agrees to accept Maine's waste).

In that case, Bartlett said, the legislature, no doubt following MLLRWA's advice, could vote to establish a site—even over the objections of local residents.

"My biggest concern," she said, "is that people think they can just vote this down and it will go away. But that's not necessarily the case."

Josh White Jr. to perform at Gould

Josh White Jr. will be the featured artist in the Gould Academy Programs in the Arts Series on Thursday, Feb. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Bingham Auditorium.

White has recorded numerous record albums and has performed at some of the finest concert halls throughout the United States, including Carnegie Hall, Madison Square Garden and the Lincoln Center. He has appeared as well at virtually every important folk and jazz festival in Europe and North America. He is the dean of college concert attractions (over 2,000 so far) and a favorite on variety television in Europe, Australia and here in the United States.

In addition to Decca, he has recorded for Mercury, United Artists,

Red Cross to hold benefit Valentine's dance

The annual Red Cross Valentine's dance to benefit the Tri-Country Chapter, American Red Cross will be held Saturday, Feb. 9, at the East Auburn community unit. The event is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. and end at midnight.

Music by the country-rock band Country Magic will be provided for dancing. Other programs of entertainment will include an auction of donated items, a wheel of fortune for those who feel lucky, and a performance by the Navel Cadets.

Ski passes, movie passes, and "get-away" weekends are just a few of the items donated by area businesses for attendees to bid on in the auction, to win on the wheel or as a door prize.

Proceeds from the dance and auction will help support American Red Cross services throughout Androscoggin, Franklin and Oxford counties. Tickets are $5 per person and are available through the Chapter office at 201 Main St. in Auburn, 795-4004.

Vanguard, Vogue (Europe) Mountain Railroad and the National Archives, not to mention many appearances on his legendary father's albums. White believes that "everyone can be touched, if we just find the right song." He was honored by the National Association of Collegiate Activities with "Harry Chapin Award for Contributions of Humanity" in 1984.

Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students and are available at the door. For more information contact Vicki Rackliffe or Marquerite Graham of the Gould Performing Arts Series at 824-3575.

Volunteer painters needed for Greenwood town office

The Greenwood selectmen are looking for a few good volunteer painters. Greenwood will celebrate its 175th anniversary this year, and town officials say they want the town to look its best.

The town office, however, could use a coat of paint. But economic hard times are pressing selectmen to save their taxpayers' money, so they are calling for volunteers to do the job.

"We're looking for volunteerism in town," said Selectman Marie Bartlett. "Painting it ourselves will be cheaper than shelling out for the whole job."

Bartlett is looking into what the town will need for insurance to cover the volunteer painters. The selectmen estimate that paint and brushes for the project will cost about $1,000.

Anyone who wants to donate their time can contact the town office.

Hunting and fishing licenses at Newry office

Hunting and fishing licenses are available at the Newry town office. Town Clerk June Swan said she would like to remind residents that dog licenses are due. Deadline for registering dogs is April 1.

State police say speed kills in winter storms

Maine State Police are urging motorists to slow down during winter storm conditions. Colonel Andrew E. Demers, Chief of the State Police, said 50 percent of the fatal accidents in Maine since Dec. 1 have been attributed to winter driving conditions.

Demers said, "Maine drivers have got to take their foot off the accelerator when driving on ice and snow. We've seen how driving too fast for conditions can cause death and injury."

State Police figures show that between Dec. 1 and Jan. 22, there have been 22 fatal motor vehicle accidents in Maine and storm related conditions were the cause of 11 of those crashes.

"It's important to realize that just because you may be driving at the posted speed limit, doesn't mean you are in control of your vehicle," Demers said. "Ice and snow hamper a driver's ability to steer, as well as to stop."

The chief said adjusting your speed and allowing for adequate braking distance are essential safety factors while driving during the winter months in Maine.

Rep. Richard Bennett announces monthly hours in Greenwood

State Rep. Richard Bennett (R-Norway) has announced that beginning in February he will hold regular monthly citizen hours in each of the three towns he represents.

Citizen hours will be held in conjunction with regular selectmen's meetings in Greenwood, Norway and Oxford. "By making myself available at the same time and place as selectmen, I will be providing 'one-stop shopping' for people who want to get in touch with their government," Bennett said.

In Greenwood, Bennett will be available on the first Tuesday of every month from 7-8 p.m. at the Greenwood Town Office. His first citizen hours in that town will be Tuesday, Feb. 5.

"I believe government must be a two-way street. Just as people sometimes need help from their representatives, I need help from my constituents to do my job," said Bennett. "There is a lot of knowledge and expertise residing with the people of Oxford County. Together we can work more effectively to make our county and state better."

"So I encourage all citizens to feel free to visit me during these office hours," said Bennett. "Of course, I am also available anytime by phone at 743-8739 at home and toll free in Augusta at 1-800-423-3900."

Management club will meet at Sudbury Inn

Western Maine Management Club will meet at the Sudbury Inn, Monday, Feb. 4. Social hour is from 5:30-6:30 p.m. with dinner from 6:30-7:30 p.m.

The guest speaker is Patricia Williams, M.D., organizational consultant. The topic will be "Teamwork: The Ultimate Human Resource."

Reservations for the meeting can be made no later than noon time Thursday, Jan. 31, by calling Brenda Faulkingham at 364-4521, Ext. 2220.

FROM THE

Bethel Town Office

I have been working with Dana Douglass and Dan Reich on an oversight with the paperwork on both Spring and Mechanic Streets. We can find no record of easements being given to the town when either of these roads were laid out.

This is more of a problem with Spring Street than Mechanic Street, because Spring Street is slated for work this spring as part of the Downtown Revitalization project. The solution appears to be to gather signed easements from property owners on both streets to be accepted at a Town Meeting. I will be contacting those of you on Spring Street sometime next week. If anyone has any knowledge of the history of this problem, or insight as to a simpler method of resolving it, please let me know.

In other business: the board of selectmen and I have selected several possible police chiefs for interviews. The public access cable television group is intent on establishing a local channel this year. Linda Saunders asks that if you have received a notice in your last sewer bill, please take the time to contact her about the loan/grant program. The bids on the Downtown Revitalization Project will be opened at 2 p.m. on Jan. 31. We hope for some excellent prices. Next week's column will be devoted to financial issues and the 1992 budget.

Rep. Barth named to Education Committee

Rep. Al Barth of Bethel has been named to the Joint Standing Committee of the 115th Maine Legislature by the House leadership.

This committee has the responsibility for oversight of all public schools and public colleges in Maine. Education represents approximately 50 percent of the state's biennial budget, or about 3.2 billion dollars of state funding.

Barth represents District 49 which includes the towns of Avon, Bethel, Byron, Gilead, Hanover, Lovell, Newry, Rangeley, Upton, Waterford and Weld; the Plantations of Lincoln, Magalloway, Rangeley and Sandy River; and the townships of Albany and Mason.

He has a strong background in education, having worked at Gould Academy for 28 years as both a teacher and administrator. In addition, he has taught in the public school system in Australia, in the SAD #44 Adult Education program, in the continuing education program of Husson College, and in the Elderhostel program. He has also served as a school

Legal assistance available

At attorney from Pine Tree Legal Assistance, Inc. will be in South Paris on Friday, Feb. 1, from 10 a.m. to noon at Paris Public Library, and in Rumford at the Rumford Public Library from 2-4 p.m. that same day.

Anyone wishing to make an appointment to see an attorney on that date is asked to call Pine Tree Legal Assistance at 784-5589.

Pine Tree Legal Assistance is a legal services program serving low-income people who meet income eligibility criteria.

Pine Tree Legal Assistance, Inc. will be in South Paris and Rumford once each month, to serve low-income people in Oxford County.

director for SAD #44. The committee has co-chairs, Senator Stephen Estes of York and Representative Nathaniel Crowley from Stockton Springs. There are 13 members of the committee, nine Democrats and four Republicans. Other members include Senators Linda Brawn of Camden and Dale McCormick of Monmouth and Representatives Wendy Ault of Wayne, Mary Cahill of Mattawamkeag, James Hardy of Lewiston, Omar Norton of Winthrop, John O'Dea of Orono, William O'Gara of Portland, James Oliver of Portland and Sophia Pfeiffer of Brunswick.

Mills urges tax extension for Maine soldiers

State Senator Jeff Mills has written a letter to Governor John R. McKernan requesting that Maine soldiers be granted an extension for filing their income taxes, similar to the federal extension proposed by President Bush and now pending before the United States Congress.

"During these times, with the pressures of war overwhelming their thoughts, our military personnel should not have to be encumbered by fiscal matters on the homefront," Mills wrote.

"It is a small, but appropriate gesture," said Mills. "These soldiers and their families are dealing with enough anxiety, without adding pressures of tax preparation," he said. Mills said that the issue was brought to his attention by Arthur Boivin of Rumford, whose daughter, Lynn, is currently serving in Saudi Arabia. Mills indicated that the decision to request the tax extension was reached after he consulted with local legislators, Phyllis Erwin, Ida Luther and Ed Pineau.

Rep. Bennett appointed to joint labor committee

First-term State Representative Richard Bennett has been appointed to serve on the 115th Legislature's Joint Standing Committee of Labor.

The appointment was made upon recommendation of House Republican Leaders.

"Workers Compensation is the most important issue to look at," said Bennett. "It needs an overhaul."

"Independent business people and people working in the woods have been hit hard by the present system. We need to stimulate and stabilize Maine's business environment to provide more opportunities for Maine people," he added.

Bennett represents Greenwood, Norway and Oxford in District 50. He is a

Rumford Point church plans monthly suppers

At the annual meeting of the Rumford Point Church on Jan. 20, it was decided to hold a series of monthly suppers. The suppers will be held on the first Saturday of each month and the proceeds will go towards the new well at the parsonage, to be drilled this spring.

The first supper will be held on Saturday, Feb. 2, from 5-6:30 p.m. and will consist of chicken pie and all the fixings. The cost will be $5 for adults and $3 for children 10 and under. Louise and John Morton and Ann and Dave Morton will be in charge of this supper.

Future suppers are planned for March 2, with Norma and Frank Withers and Sue and John Dolloff as planners; April 6, with Barbara Gross and Bess Etti; and May 4, with Barbara and Dick Burns and Fran and Harry Burns. The menus for these future suppers will be announced later. Events are also in the planning stage for June and July.

former Maine Republican Party executive director, and Maine Republican Party secretary. He is also a sales representative for Burlington Homes and Maine Republican Party vice chairman.

The Joint Standing Committee on Labor considers a wide range of labor issues including: wage and hour laws, employment security, unemployment compensation, labor relations, workers' health and safety, job training, and strikes and labor disputes.

Sallie Chisholm appointed to hearing aid board

Sallie Chisholm of Norway has been appointed by Governor John McKernan to serve as a member of the Board of Hearing Aid Fitters and Dealers.

Sallie Chisholm has been licensed in the state of Maine as a hearing instrument specialist for five years. She is presently at the Town Line Professional Building in Norway.

As a member of the board, Chisholm says, "I will plan to make a positive contribution to this committee by representing the consumer of hearing aid purchases. The hearing aid industry is ever growing and changing and I feel strongly that the consumer needs to be ever protected and kept informed as to the regulations of the state of Maine and the federal regulations. It is with great pleasure that I accept this position and promise to uphold the laws and regulations and seek to be an asset on the committee."

Bethel Senior Citizens

The Bethel Senior Citizens will meet at 11 a.m. at Backstage Restaurant, Feb. 13. Sue Farrar will be the speaker, speaking on Israel. Menu is mashed potatoes, meatloaf and gravy, fresh carrots, etc. Price, $6.50. Please bring Valentines for the shut-ins.

PHOTOVOLTAICS WORKSHOP—Dr. Richard Komp, president of the Maine Solar Energy Association, will present a lecture on new developments in solar cells, on Friday, Feb. 1, at Gould Academy. The following day, Saturday, from 8:30 to 5:30 p.m., Dr. Komp will lead a workshop on photovoltaics. There is a $25 charge for the workshop. Information is available from Peter Chandler, 824-2534.

Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary met Tuesday evening at the Fire Station with Flossie Bernier, Lorraine Mills, Sally Melville, Mary Stone, Denise Swan, Veronica Melville and Maggie Ring present. They discussed buying some pails and town meeting dinner.

The Greenwood Fire Department was called out Thursday evening to give mutual aid to Woodstock who had a structure fire at the intersection of Route 26 and 232.

The Jackson-Silver American Legion will be attending the Feb. 3 church service at the Locke Mills Union Church and will be taking part in the service, part of which will be a commemorative service for four American Legion chaplains.

Crystal Hebert Lake was guest of honor at a birthday supper at the Locke Mills Union Church Sunday School room Saturday evening, Jan. 19, in honor of her 40th birthday. Those present besides the guest of honor, husband Al Lake and son Brent were her mother and stepfather, Rowena and Herbie Dunham, her aunts Amy Rugg and Lillian Sowersby, sisters and brothers, Joe and Pam Hebert with Timmie, Amy and Alex; Dolly Olson, Gary and Jeannine Wing with Todd, Marilyn Howe with Lisa and Jeffrey; Theresa and Kenny Koskela with Matthew and Kristina; Paul and Cathy Hebert with Lacey and Tonya; Tony and Ruthie Hebert with Jason; and friends Lorraine Mills and Kendrick Scribner. She was presented with the family t-shirt which reads, "This is what 40 looks like," which is passed to each member when they reach that magic age, and gifts and cards.

The Greenwood Fire Department was called out to extinguish a chimney fire at the old Dunham homestead on Howe Hill Friday afternoon.

Program was song by all; game; "Thoughts," a reading by Olive Risko; Skit, "The Diner" by Russell Yates, Peggy Blake, Larry Risko and Richard Felt; game, reading, "The Song of Lazy Farmer" by Alice Hoyt; riddle by Viva Whitman; happy birthday was sung to Donna Downs and Viva Whitman. A few moments of silent prayer was held for the men and women in Saudi Arabia and for peace. Next meeting will be Valentines, each one make or bring one to exchange. It will also be the cranberry bar contest. If you want to enter ask Alice for a copy of the recipe.

The Woodstock Senior Citizens will meet on Feb. 7 at the Woodstock Conference Room. There will be a potluck dinner. Each one please bring a dish for the dinner and your own eating utensils. There will be a game party, please bring an item for that.

Edith Hathaway, Helen Ring, Ruth Dunham and Alice Wardwell had a belated Christmas get-together at Beatrice Farnum's. They had dinner and exchange of gifts.

Larry Billings, curator of the Historical Society, has put some items of the Chamber of Commerce into a notebook. The Historical Society has discovered quite a bit of information on famous citizens who used to live around Lake Christopher. While this material has come in slowly over a long period of time, now a fairly complete picture is possible. Consider the following facts—President Hayes' daughter lived on Lake Christopher in her later years. Rev. Kinsman, an Episcopal Bishop, built an estate called Birchmere across the lake. The Ellerys, a wealthy couple built "Dream Home" because Mrs. Ellery supposedly envisioned it in a dream. The Wiske family established the Birch Villa Summer Music Camp. Yet another resident was local author George Allan England. It is also said Presidents Grant and Coolidge visited the area and Mrs. Ringling, of circus fame, came to fish. The Woodstock Historical Society is pleased to be able to share just a part of this information as a public service.

Memorial Hospital, Norway. Marjorie and Hugh Awalt, Augusta, brought supper and enjoyed eating with her mother, Elmira Doyen, on Saturday evening.

Connie Hindman and her mother, Elmira Doyen, were in Rumford Friday afternoon for a doctor's appointment.

Rotary Club notes

The Bethel Rotary Club welcomed our newest member, Wendy Penley, owner of Mahoosuc Realty, at the Tuesday, Jan. 22, breakfast meeting. President Scott Dennis presented Wendy with her Rotary pin and publications.

After a brief business meeting program chairman of the morning, Rick Whitney, introduced his guests, three Telstar exchange students. Gianni Vitolo from Uruguay told how much she loves this area, her American host family (the Gordon Gillies family) and Telstar High School. Rafael Gisin from Switzerland shared thoughts on similarities of American and Swiss culture. His host family are the Lewises of Flat Road, West Bethel. Pedro Martin from Spain, who is now a famous Telstar soccer player, is enjoying his stay. His host family is the Tom Remington's of Bethel. Pedro would like to have a career in the movie industry.

Rotarian George Larson gave Rotary information with statistics on how many children in the world die each day from starvation. The numbers approach 40,000 and he challenged Rotary to take action on this.

From the Bethel Area

Chamber of Commerce

The staff and directors would like to thank Barb and Francis Dumont for hosting a wonderful house/business after hours at their new restaurant at Pleasant River Motel. The food was delicious and atmosphere wonderful—we recommended it highly to all.

Executive Director Robin Zinchuk attended a luncheon on Wednesday at the Maine National Bank in Rumford to celebrate the formation of a new Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) chapter. Score is a volunteer organization with the mission to help small businesses and to give small business people advice on almost anything. This new organization is blessed with four Bethel businessmen: Romeo Baker, Robert Crane, Mike Thurston and Ken Bohr. The home base for the Rumford SCORE will be the Maine National Bank on Congress Street in Rumford.

Health Center

The Bethel Area Health Center and SAD #44 Adult Education Department is pleased to announce the first Women's Health Conference to be held March 23 at the Bethel Area Health Center.

The community education committee of Bethel Area Health Center is busy scheduling speakers and planning activities for this full day event. Many Women's Health conferences are held around the New England area as annual events. These conferences grow yearly in response to women speaking out about what their real health concerns are and requesting the information and support to address those concerns. We as women are the experts concerning what our health needs are. It is hoped that this conference, which is the first (as far as we know) in the Bethel area becomes an annual event.

Topics and presenters are being confirmed rapidly and in approximately one week a brochure will be available with a full agenda and a registration form. The charge for the full day is $15 which includes presentations, screenings and a catered lunch, a sliding fee scale is available. Save March 23 on your calendar and join us for this first annual event. Call SAD #44 for information, a brochure or to pre-register at 824-2780.

Financial stress may adversely affect the seeking of health care. Area hospitals with Hill-Burton funds are obligated to provide a certain portion of their care on a free or discounted basis. This is a generally unknown fact. Chronic and acute ambulatory care is addressed at the Bethel Area Health Center with the added benefit of the sliding fee scale. During periods when finances are limited and the unemployment rate is high, people are less apt to seek medical care. Health care needs tend to increase with postponement.

A sliding fee scale is available at the Bethel Area Health Center, a federally funded rural health center. This funding allows Bethel Area Health Center to provide health care at a discount to those consumers who meet the federally mandated 1990 CSA guidelines for income and family size. Forty-seven percent of persons living within the Bethel catchment area fit within these guidelines.

Call or come in to the Health Center to discuss how you and your family may benefit from our sliding fee scale. Our number is 824-2193.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

Next weekend promises to be a busy one for Jackson-Silver Post and Unit, American Legion and Auxiliary.

On Saturday, Feb. 2, they will be serving a supper to the public starting at 5 p.m. There will be a choice of baked beans and hotdogs or spaghetti and meatballs. These will be accompanied by rolls and salad. Dessert will consist of gingerbread with whipped topping. Members of both Post and Unit will attend church in a body on Sunday to commemorate a special day in the history of our country. On Feb. 3, 1943, the SS Dorchester was sunk off the coast of Greenland. There were other ships which sank in World War II, but this one is especially remembered for a special event which occurred as it took place. On deck ministering to the needs of the crew, leading them to lifeboats and handing out life jackets, were four chaplains. They were: Lt. Alexander Goode, a Jewish rabbi; Rev. Father J.R. Washington, a Catholic; Rev. Clark Poling, a Baptist; and Rev. George Fox, a Methodist.

Observing that some of the crew members did not have life jackets, they removed their own and gave

Be your own Valentine
Valentine's Day is all about love and hearts. This Valentine season, consider learning one way to love and care for yourself by being kind to your heart.

"Be Your Own Valentine" is a program on healthy heart eating being sponsored by the University of Maine Cooperative Extension in Oxford County. It is a practical workshop for anyone interested in developing healthier eating habits," says Extension Educator Wendy Legg Pollock about the program she will be presenting. "It's not just for heart patients or those put on a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet by a physician, but rather it is for anyone wanting to learn how to select and prepare tasty foods that are low in fat, cholesterol, salt and calories." "Be Your Own Valentine" will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 13, from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Extension Office on Olson Road in South Paris. The program will begin with a "heart healthy" luncheon, followed by a discussion on how to select and prepare food that is good for you and your heart.

There is a $5 fee for the workshop to cover the cost of food and a participant's packet of materials. Preregistration and prepayment is required and due in the Extension Office by Feb. 11. Space is limited, so call the Extension Office today at 743-6329.

them to four men who were without. It was subsequently reported that, as the ship went down, the last that was seen of these brave men was the four of them standing on deck with their arms around one another, in prayer. There are many stories of bravery and self-sacrifice which come out of any such conflict, but this one is particularly moving because it so powerfully symbolizes the "brotherhood" of man.

To the American Legion and Auxiliary, the first Sunday in February is known as Four Chaplains Sunday. Both organizations also support the work of the Chapel of Four Chaplains located in Philadelphia which was dedicated in 1951.

The next regular meeting of both the Post and Unit will be on Feb. 7 at 7 p.m.

THOUGHTS FROM THE
Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

"Come to me, all who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn from me; for I am gentle and lowly in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light." (Matthew 11:28-30)

We are all heavy laden these days with our concern for the war in the Middle East. Whether the war is as near as our worries about a brother or sister or other loved ones fighting in that war or as far away as our compassion for all our brothers and sisters affected by this war, we are weary and heavy laden.

What did Christ mean when he said that he could give us rest; that his yoke is easy and his burden is light? As I have pondered on this over the years, I find I have no final revelation. However, it is interesting to think about a yoke, which for animals, binds them together to work at the same pace and for individual people distributes and balances the weight of a burden so that it is easier to carry (as a canoe, for example). Christ's yoke also binds us together with none other than Christ as the guide. We can share one another's burdens, which lightens our load. We do not have to save the world. Another has done that. We cannot even save ourselves, though we will keep on trying. We do need to seek and speak our truth, in love. Only then can we discover what is illusion and what holds firm.

We can listen to one another's truth, and respect that other. Especially in times like these, we will find our view may differ, for none of us has the final truth. We can pray, each in our own way. In my lifetime this is the fourth war that has involved our country. The prayer that rises is: "Lord, have mercy."

Rev. Gwyneth Bohr
Episcopal Priest

Harley joins his brothers Peter M., age 12 years; Matthew, age 3 1/2 years; and Terrence, age 15 months.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Gorman are pleased to announce the arrival of a grandson, Zeben David, born Dec. 30, 1990 at Maine Medical Hospital, Portland. The proud parents are Jim and Carrie Gorman of Gorham, Maine.

Obituaries

FRANCIS A. COX

Francis A. Cox, 60, of South Woodstock, died Sunday night, Jan. 27, 1991, at Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway following a long illness.

He was born at Woodstock, May 20, 1930, the son of John E. Sr. and Jennie Lind Silver Cox. He was educated in Woodstock schools and graduated from Woodstock High School in the class of 1950. He was a U.S. Marine Corps veteran who served in the Korean Conflict. Mr. Cox was employed in area shoe shops for many years and most recently worked at Norway Footwear Corp. He enjoyed playing beano and raising farm animals, including steers that his brothers took to fairs and entered in pulling contests. He took pride in his garden, especially flowers.

He is survived by three brothers: Donald, Leroy and John Cox Jr., all of South Woodstock; six sisters: Edith Sampson of Turner, Eleanor Mason of Leeds, Nettie Rose of Lewiston, Sylvia Quirion of East Livermore, Irene Buck of East Livermore, and Susan Cox of Turner. He was predeceased by two brothers, Merle and Wesley Cox.

Visiting hours will be held Thursday from 1-2 p.m., followed by a memorial service at 2 o'clock at Andrews Funeral Home, South Woodstock. Please omit flowers. Spring interment will be in South Woodstock Cemetery.

SALLY C. VIRICEL

Sally C. Viricel, 74, wife of the late Henry J. Viricel, died Jan. 9, 1991, at a Bangor nursing home.

She was born in Bethel, May 29, 1916, the daughter of Alonzo and Emily (Stielinger) Chapman. She was employed for many years as a bookkeeper for the Caldwell Sweet Co. and more recently for Seguno's Restaurant.

She is survived by one daughter, Andrea V. Dill of Brewer; two grandchildren, James R. Dill and Beth M. Shumaker, both of Brewer; two great-grandchildren, Jennifer and Jason Shumaker, both of Brewer; one brother, Paul S. Chapman of Palmto, Fla.; and several nieces and nephews.

Burial will be in Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Bangor.

Those who wish may make memorial donations to St. Joseph Healthcare, 360 Broadway, Bangor, Me., 04401.

JOSEPH JAMES DOLLOFF

Joseph James Dolloff, two, died Jan. 18, 1991 at Maine Medical Center, Portland after a two days stay.

Born in the winter of '51
He was his parents' only son.
With wit so dry and words so few
He's a Mainer, through and through.
But humor he has and plenty of it
As for this picture, he must surely love it.
What a great toothless grin!
Happy Birthday, Charlie!
I love you.

Your sister,
Eileen

BECAUSE YOU OPENED YOUR HEART,

Today, new techniques allow doctors to repair many heart defects in children without making a major incision. Your contributions to the American Heart Association help make these and other advances possible. And that makes opening your heart a good way to save it. To learn more, contact your nearest American Heart Association. You can help prevent heart disease. We can tell you how.

DOCTORS WON'T HAVE TO OPEN HERS.
